SUBMARINE DEFENDED

Germany insists Submersibles Have

Blockade Zone.—Reprisal
Against England
Upheld.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, May 5.—President Wilson and the cabinet went carefully over the German note as transmitted in news dispatches from Berlin.

A first feeling that it was unsatisfactory, was somewhat lessened by the text of the new orders to submarine commanders, although it was foreseen that the reference to immunity for "merchandise recognized by international law" might admit of some dispute of interpretation.

So much depends upon words and their shades of meaning involved in translation from German to English, that no decision can be attempted until the official text is in the president's hands.

Ambassador Gerard cabled today that he had started it on the cables last night. It ought to be in Washington tonight or early tomorrow morning.

Two Conflicting Views.

Two views were current in official circles. One was that Germany has declared her intention of abandoning her present methods of submarine warfare as demanded by the president and that the American government might have to wait to see whether the abandonment will be effected. The other was that the United States having already attempted to have Great Britain give up its interference with the German commerce, it would be unwise to digest it without first making it clear that it cannot discuss further its negotiations with Great Britain and has no course but to break diplomatic relations with Germany.

While the general tone of the German note is one of favoring peace, officials took the position the language was immaterial if the guarantees were real.

No "Hasty Action."

While final decision on the attitude of the American government waits on official text, some cabinet members insist that the German assurances probably would be accepted and diplomatic relations would not be broken unless the order to submarine commanders was violated and American lives endangered. At the state department, after the cabinet meeting, it was stated that no "hasty action" would be taken on the German note and in view of its length and necessity of digesting it carefully, it was "improbable" that any decision would be reached before next week.

Bernstorff in New York.

New York, May 5.—Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, left for Washington today on a one o'clock train after receiving by wireless telegraph at his hotel here, the text of the German note. He denied himself to interviewers.

It is known, however, that the German embassy view is that the note is all for which the United States asks; that it signifies a return to what has been termed "cruiser warfare"—that is, operation of submarines with no search. The embassy view is that inasmuch as no mention was made in the note on the question of armament, it is not a complicating factor.

Text of German Reply.

Berlin, wireless to Sayville, May 5.—Following is the text of the note of the German government in reply to the American note respecting submarine warfare, delivered on Thursday by Count von Jagow, the foreign secretary, to Count von Bernstorff.

The undersigned, on behalf of the German government, has the honor to present to his excellency, the ambassador of the United States, Mr. Gerard, the German reply to the note of April 20, regarding the conduct of German submarine warfare.

The German government handed to the proper naval authorities for early publication the evidence concerning the success as communicated by the government of the United States. In the government of the United States and judging by the results, the German government is not to the possibility that the ship mentioned in the note of April 10 as having been torpedoed by a German submarine is actually identical with the Lusitania.

The German government begs to reserve for further communication on the subject, until certain points are ascertained which are of decisive importance for the establishment of the facts of the case. Should it turn out that the commander was wrong in assuming the vessel to be a man-of-war, the German government will not fail to draw the consequences resulting therefrom.

Germany Repudiates Charge.

In connection with the case of the Sussex, the government of the United States made a series of statements, the gist of which is the assertion that one instance is to be considered but one instance of a deliberate method of indiscriminate destruction of vessels of all ports, nationalities and destinations by German submarine command-

Says Reply Is Best U. S. Can Expect

Count von Bernstorff.

This new photo of Ambassador von Bernstorff, whose efforts to maintain peace between the United States and Germany are attracting world wide attention, was taken in Atlantic City a few days ago. Although admitting that the situation is now graver than ever before, von Bernstorff still believes that peace between the two nations will be maintained.

In the present state of affairs, more particularly as the government of the United States omitted to substantiate the assertion by reference to concrete facts.

"The German government will state it has imposed far-reaching restraint upon the use of the submarine weapons, solely in consideration of neutrals' interest in spite of the fact that these restrictions are necessarily of advantage to Germany's enemies. No such consideration has ever been shown neutrals by Great Britain and her allies."

"The German submarine forces have had in fact, orders to conduct the submarine warfare in accordance with the general principles of visit and search and the destruction of merchant vessels recognized by international law, the sole exception being the conduct of warfare against enemy trade, carried on in enemy freight ships encountered in the war zone surrounding Great Britain. With regard to these, no assurances have ever been given to the government of the United States. No such assurances are contained in the declaration of Feb. 8, 1915."

Admits Errors Occur.

"The German government cannot admit any doubt that these orders were given or executed in good faith and necessarily occurred."

"But, apart from the possibility of errors, naval warfare, just like warfare on land, implies unavoidable damage to neutral persons and goods entering the fighting zone. Even in cases where the naval action is confined to ordinary forms of cruiser warfare, neutral persons and goods are repeatedly come to grief."

"The German government has repeatedly and explicitly pointed out the danger from mines that have led to the loss of numerous ships."

"The German government has made several proposals to the government of the United States in order to reduce to a minimum for American travelers and goods the inherent dangers of naval warfare. Unfortunately, the government of the United States decided not to accept the proposals. Had it accepted, the government of the United States would have been instrumental in preventing the greater part of the accidents that American citizens have met with in the meantime."

"The German government still stands by its offer to come to an agreement along these lines."

Can't Abandon Submarines.

"As the German government repeatedly declared, it cannot dispense with the use of the submarine weapon in the conduct of warfare against enemy trade. The German government, however, has now decided to make a further concession, adapting methods of submarine warfare to the interest of neutrals."

"In reaching this decision, the German government is actuated by considerations which are above the level of disputed questions."

"The German government attaches no less importance to the sacred principles of humanity than the government of the United States. It again fully takes into account that the German government is co-operated in developing international law in conformity with these principles, the ultimate object of which has always been to confine warfare on sea and land to armed forces of belligerents and safeguard as far as possible, non-combatants against horrors of war. But although these considerations were of great weight, they alone would not, under present circumstances, have determined the attitude of the German government."

"For in answer to the appeal by the government of the United States on behalf of the sacred principles of humanity and international law, the German Government must repeat once more with all emphasis, that it was not the German but British government which ignored all accepted rules of international law and extended the territory of war to the lives and property of non-combatants, having no

A Zeppelin raided Saloniki during early hours of this morning, according to a Reuters dispatch from that city, which has been confirmed. The airship was subjected to a heavy fire and destroyed. Only one of the crew of thirty of the airship, escaped.

Repulse German Assaults.

Paris, May 5.—West of the Meuse the German advance, southeast of Haulcourt, on the Verdun front, was repulsed along the whole front attack, except one or two points in advanced trenches.

An attempted attack upon the trenches at Cappey, south of the Somme, the statement adds, failed completely. East of the Meuse, and in the Woerwe there was intermittent bombardment.

Capture Trenches.

Berlin, May 5.—The capture of several French trenches, southeast of Haulcourt, on the Verdun front, was announced today by the war office. Repeated French attacks against a German position west of Dead Man's Hill broke down.

Air-Naval Battle.

Berlin, May 5.—A battle in the Adriatic between Italian and Austrian warships and aircraft, ended in a statement received here today from the Austro-Hungarian admiralty. The statement also says Austro-Hungarian airships have raided the Italian city of Brindisi.

Relate of Rescue.

New York, May 5.—Details of the sinking of the Italian ship Josef Agost Fornerozzi, formerly an Austrian vessel, by a German submarine on April 25, near 150 miles off Land's End, England, and the rescue of the crew from open boats by Norwegian steamship Pythia, were related by officers of the German navy here today from London. The Josef Agost, according to the Pythia's officers, was first sighted about two miles ahead and at about the same time a submarine was seen.

Sentence of Fifteen Others.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Dublin, May 4.—Four more rebel prisoners were sentenced to death by court martial and shot this morning. This was officially announced. The men were: Joseph H. Blankett, Edward Daly, Michael O'Hanrahan and William Pearse.

Fifteen other rebels were sentenced to death, the official statement adds, but later their sentences were commuted to ten years' penal servitude. The names of the other prisoners were not given.

Two rebels were sentenced to ten years' imprisonment. Only one shot has been heard in Dublin since last night. The military authorities continued to destroy large quantities of arms and ammunition.

The following official communication was issued Thursday afternoon: "Four prisoners, Joseph Blankett, Edward Daly, Michael O'Hanrahan and William Pearse were sentenced to death and shot this morning, after the court martial had been held by the general commander-in-chief."

Fifteen others sentenced to death were commuted to ten years' penal servitude. They were: Thos. Bevan, Thos. Walsh, Philip Lynch, Michael Merwyn, Dennis O'Callahan, P. L. Sweeney.

A Crippled Deaf Mute's Plea.

Help the fellow that's down today.
Give him a lift in his sorrow.
For this old world has a tragic way
And you may be down tomorrow.

The poetry is true enough in itself, but the plea did not fit the facts at the city hall police station when Len Carroll, Earl Smith, Charles Lerandourke and L. Dean, residents of "Somewhere in a little state of Iowa," were arrested as suspects in the robbery of the Fellows and Brunell Coal company office at Evansville. Carroll had the card with the verse and the plea for help on his person, but proved to be anything but a mute or a cripple in his cell. He was as glib as a magpie and his pseudo crippled hands were as dexterous as a Hebrew meddler's.

The fourth youth was arrested by Officer Harry Smith in the Williams saloon at the corner of Milwaukee and Academy streets, a few minutes after the arrest of the other three. The partner of Evansville reported the robbery of the coal office and the presence of the thieves on the freight train which just left Evansville.

When searched at the station Carroll had quite an amount of change; Smith, two dollars, Lerandourke two and a half and Dean a dollar and a quarter. Stripped of the money, Carroll's person gave up the remainder of the sum between twenty-five and thirty dollars alleged to have been taken from the office.

The men are held on a warrant sworn out by the Evansville police. Cal Broughton, chief of police, officer Fred Gilman and former Deputy Sheriff Libby were here last night to look the men over.

When asked, they announced their intention of coming here this morning to appear in the municipal court and press the charges of daylight robbery. Stripped of the money, Carroll's person gave up the remainder of the sum between twenty-five and thirty dollars alleged to have been taken from the office.

With Association Directors.

Janesville's going to have semi-pro baseball this season after all. The Janesville Cardinals are going to be the first to play in the local league, using the Janesville Park Association diamonds and the fans that follow them are going to be able to use the big stand at the park.

Manager George Caldwell of the 1915 Cardinals last night made the board of directors of the Park association and announced his willingness to raise the ante fifty dollars in addition to the amount the fans already owed the board for the use of the grounds on Sundays and holidays. Caldwell paid two hundred and fifty dollars and the contract was given him. It contains the understanding that no game or games are to be played here on the Fourth of July without the consent of the Independence Day celebration committee, and that on Labor day the park board reserves the right to the use of the park for a racing machine or to any other celebration they care to put on. This was favorable to Caldwell.

Nine games with the Beloit Fairies will be played for sure, and the local grounds could not have been secured for the Cardinals manager's intention to make exhibition contests nearby.

The Cardinals are to be played at the nine contests are to be played here is not known, but it is assured fans that they will have plenty of rattling good games this season.

"Personally I believe that the rest room idea of the women's clubs, the city is a commendable civic project which should receive the support and approval of the city, of its business men and of every individual," was the comment of Mayor James A. Fawcett today when informed of the fact that considerable difficulty in securing the amount of money desired is met by continuing Mayor Fawcett said, "The idea is well worth considering and should prove more successful than when the rooms were fitted up in the city hall. What Janesville needs is a public comfort station, a little more liberal idea than now being considered by the women's clubs. But, nevertheless, the rest room is but a step towards the goal and we should all strive to our utmost to get it."

"One place where I think the ladies' difficulty in raising the funds is, is the fact that at the present time they cannot expect to secure the necessary cooperation of the merchant men. They can show where the rest room is to be located. I do not want in any manner to discourage the idea because I realize the importance of the project for just such a place. I am personally in favor of the rest room. It is something we need badly and it surely deserves more attention than I think it has received thus far."

The fact that the British ambassador, Sir George Buchanan, personally paid a visit to President Wilson today and expressed regret that through a misunderstanding another official of the secretary of the treasury had not been present with the ceremony appropriate to his position.

British officials learned to their amazement that the governor of Trinidad had outdone himself to make a demonstration, but apparently was little impressed with the coming of Secretary McAdoo, who was returning from making the Pan-American high commission at Buenos Aires.

FOWLER BURIED TODAY

Remains Taken to Broadhead, His Boyhood Home, for Interment—
No Further Activity Expected in Case.

At 727 Brooks street in Beloit this afternoon was a large and morbid gathering to see the funeral of Archie Fowler, victim of his own hand in the Rock county jail, after three weeks' detention for the murder of Rudolph Walvig, and towards whom the guilty finger of suspicion points as the slayer of Walvig. But downtown in the municipal court chambers there was another crowd, not so large but just as curious. Earl Reynolds, who had been implicated in the crime by Fowler, had been brought to Beloit, and tonight Reynolds is a free man.

This afternoon before Judge Clark, in municipal court, at Beloit, Reynolds was formally released.

Minute investigation, without a doubt, has established the fact that if Archie Fowler had an accomplice in the crime it was not Earl Reynolds. W. H. Dougherty, his attorney, has established a most perfect alibi and District Attorney Dunwiddie, Judge Clark and Beloit officers are now assured of his innocence.

Reynolds was told the good news in the county jail a few minutes before twelve o'clock this noon on receipt of a telephone call from District Attorney Dunwiddie to Mr. Dougherty that he with Judge Clark and Chief of Police Qualman were ready to start to Janesville to get Reynolds, bring him to Beloit and in municipal court formally release him.

"I knew they'd do it," was all Reynolds could say when he was first informed. The joy of knowing that freedom and the blotting out of the charge which has held him a prisoner since Fowler implicated him in his confession, overcame him.

He was not long in regaining his composure and then talked freely. He said he had the intuition that Fowler would kill himself. "I knew there was something wrong on the day they brought him back from his examination at Beloit," Reynolds said. "I lay here on my bed in the cell when they brought him in. All during the morning I tried to read, but I could not. The thought constantly preyed upon my mind that Fowler was going to die by his own hand. I heard them take him up stairs. Then I tried to read again, but I could not. The next I remember was the detective going up with his dinner."

"I heard him shout, 'He's done it,' and 'I know Fowler had committed suicide. There was much rushing up and down stairs and after awhile somebody placed a blanket against the cell-room door to keep out the sound, but I knew it all."

"I'd rather have had him absolve me from any blame before he died, however. If he had only left a note or had made a confession to clear me, it would have been better for me. If he had said, 'I have gone up to tell

Applied Proverb of Modern Business

"Faint heart ne'er won fat dollars."

Or as John Wanamaker once stated another phase of the equation:

"Advertising is no business for the quitter."

The man that sticks at it wins. The article with merit that is advertised day in and day out is the article that turns profits for its sponsor.

The effect of advertising is cumulative. Returns grow bigger with every repetition.

There are advertisers using this newspaper that increase their space year after year.

And each year their sales enlarge. They are men who find that advertising pays.

POLICE OF CLEVELAND WILL ALLOW SPOONING
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Cleveland, May 5.—Spooning will be o. k. in Cleveland parks, which opened today. City officials, though differing in their definitions, believe spooning should be encouraged.
"Proper spooning is holding hands," said Park Commissioner Newell.
"Heartfelt sighs, languishing glances, soft cooing words, but no holding of hands, is proper spooning," said Alex Bernstein, director of public utilities.
Safety Director A. D. Sprosty, whose copy will see that the spooning rule is obeyed, arose to speak as follows:
"When the band plays ragtime and the moon plays peek-a-boo, and you see a harem in a masculine arm slipping round a slim waist, do you?"
W. S. Fitzgerald, law director, says spooners may even kiss. "Suppose the hearts of two lovers had decided henceforth to beat as one," said Fitzgerald. "Who would deny them one discreet kiss?"
"The law wouldn't!"

REYNOLDS IS RELEASED ON COURT ORDER
him for God's sake tell them I didn't have anything to do with it."
Asked what his opinion was of Fowler's connecting him with the crime, Reynolds thought it was because of his presence in the Beloit court room at the time Fowler was first brought into court.
"I was in the first row of seats there," he related. "Fowler was standing idly talking to his girl, Miss Evelyn. Her back was turned towards me, but as they talked she swung around slightly and saw me. I have only a speaking acquaintance with her and upon her nodding to me I nodded back in recognition of her salute."
"I really think that it was at this time that Fowler suddenly saw a possibility of getting me connected with the crime. If it came to a show down. After that, as I have figured it, he wove a web to implicate me if they got him. They did. I can bear no ill feelings toward Fowler. I cannot believe that he was in his right mind. He could not be. He must have been mad."
Reynolds is undecided what he will do now that he has his freedom. He is an expert automobile driver and has studied aerodynamics. He has flown with Lincoln Beachy both over Chicago and New York. Several years ago when he was in the army Reynolds volunteered to take charge of an army dirigible balloon which had not been out of its hangar for two years. The aerial corps were afraid of the airship and would not venture aloft. Reynolds spent half a day filling it with gas and with another soldier started its engines and made a cruise of over twenty miles at varying altitudes. Shortly after this he was promoted to corporal. Later his parents purchased his release from the army.
Who Was Accomplished?
The question whether or not Fowler had an accomplice in the murder of Walvig, today still puzzled the county authorities and detectives employed on the case. The belief that he did have, aside from Fowler's own statement, the matter, gained credence from the story of John Lentell, a farmer living a mile west of Beloit on the Monroe road. Lentell stated that he was driving home from Beloit on the Saturday night that Walvig was murdered. Within ten minutes after the crimes had struck eight o'clock he drove over the hill, just east of the old Blackman farm. Here he saw the lights of an automobile standing in the middle of the road. He saw two men standing at one side of the machine. He believes that a third man walked around the rear of the car and drove to the other side. As Lentell drove by the two evidently busied themselves with the car, but as soon as his rig passed, they jumped into the car and drove rapidly toward Beloit.

This evidence is considered important for the reason that Fowler claimed it was at eight o'clock that Walvig was murdered at this very culvert and his body thrown beneath the steel wooden bridge over a narrow stream which crosses the road. If this is the automobile in which Fowler and Walvig drove into the city and which stopped at the culvert, to make possible the disposal of Walvig's body, then it is certain that Fowler had accomplices.
Fowler's Father Today.
The body of Archie Fowler, which had been lying in the undertaking rooms of County Coroner Frank Ryan since his suicide, was shipped to Beloit at four o'clock Thursday afternoon. It was taken to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Fowler, 767 Brooks street, where private funeral services were conducted this morning at nine o'clock. The body was taken to Broadhead and interment and public services were held at one o'clock this afternoon at Mt. Hope church, eleven miles south of Broadhead. The Reverend E. A. Finn of the West Side Presbyterian church, Beloit, officiated at both services.

On account of the severe illness brought about by the shock, first of his son's arrest in connection with the Walvig murder and later of his tragic suicide, George Fowler was unable to attend his son's funeral. Great fears are entertained for his recovery.
Archie Fowler was born at the town of Spring Green, near Broadhead, May 14, 1895. Besides his parents, he is survived by his brothers and three sisters: Mrs. Mary Gritzmaker and Mrs. Andrew Gunderson, Newark; Miss Hubbard Fowler, Beloit; C. H. Fowler and Scott, Rollie, George, Horace, Morris, Arlie and Henry, all of Beloit.

BRICK ON FRANKLIN FIRST TWO BLOCKS
Commission to Rescind Order for Brick From Milwaukee to Galena.—Pave But Two Blocks.
Franklin street property owners, fourteen of them, were at the city hall last night to protest the order of the city commission that this thoroughfare be paved with brick. The same delegation which was strongest in its protest at two previous meetings, again bore the burden last evening.
They were determined against the use of brick, but had no other substitute to suggest. Edward Donahue, 221 Locust street, a Franklin street property owner, spoke against brick and warning against the use of sheet asphalt also. He furthered the opposition against brick, and from the remarks of several of the delegation present at the close of the meeting he had moulded opposition against sheet asphalt.
For a while it looked as though no better decision was to result of the meeting than had been secured at the two held previously. Then a short conference of the commissioners resulted in decision to rescind the brick paving order over the distance named and to order brick between Milwaukee and Pleasant streets and to let the property owners between Pleasant and Galena petition for what they want. This was favorable.
Whether or not the order for brick would be made today at the meeting of the commissioners was not known.

TARKINGTON'S NOVEL IS SURE TO PLEASE
"The Turnout," New Serial Which Will Begin in Saturday's Issue, Is Treat for Gazette Readers.
"The Turnout," by Booth Tarkington, a vivid, realistic story of American life, will be run serially in the Gazette beginning with the issue of Saturday. It is one of the best stories from the pen of this writer, the author of "Penrod" and "The Conquest of Canaan." It deals in a lifelike manner with the family and business affairs of a successful American business man, and tells the story of the rise of one son, supposed to be the do-it, to fame and fortune when his other more promising brothers prove failures. There is a delightful thread of romance and sentiment running through the narrative, which is told in the author's or's best style.

FILE DEATH RECORD OF AN AGED NEGRO
Francis Davis, Who Died at County Alms House, Was 117 Years of Age.
The mortuary record of Francis Davis, colored, aged 117 years, long resident of Rock county, was filed with the state bureau of vital statistics Thursday. He was a farmer by occupation, and for eight years up to the time of his death, was an inmate of the county almshouse. Old age was ascribed as the cause of death, and doubtless medical opinion was divided on the point. There have been many examples of colored persons reaching an age well past the hundred mark, but as in this case, their exact age is not always well authenticated because of the general absence of legal records pertaining to their early life.

OBITUARY.
Mrs. D. J. McCarthy.
Mrs. D. J. McCarthy, of 100 Linn street, passed quietly away at five Thursday after a lingering illness of nearly six months, during which time she bore her sufferings with great patience.
Margaret Sullivan was born March 8, 1868, at Cooksville, where she grew to womanhood. On February 19, 1885, she was united in marriage to D. J. McCarthy of Porter, to which union one son was born. Deceased leaves besides her husband and son, two sisters, Mrs. J. Anderson of Stoughton and Mrs. Anna Linay of this city and one brother, John Sullivan of Stoughton.
The funeral will be held at St. Ann's Catholic church at Stoughton at nine o'clock Saturday morning. Her many Janesville friends extend their sympathy.

Agnes Belle Hilt.
Mrs. Agnes Belle Hilt was called by death yesterday afternoon at her home on 529 Chatham street, after a prolonged illness. Agnes Belle Hilt was born November twenty-eighth, 1859. She was married in 1887 to A. Hilt of this city. Three children were born to them. She is survived by her husband and children, Mrs. Jesse Meadows, Charles and Eugene Hilt, all of this city.
Mrs. Hilt was an active member of the Baptist church and a member of the Ladies Auxiliary of F. O. E. and Fraternal Aid association. Funeral services will be held from the residence on Chatham street at two o'clock Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Andrew Porter will conduct the service and interment will be made in the Oak Hill cemetery.
Lakota Club: There will be a special meeting of the Lakota club tonight at 7:30 o'clock in their club quarters in the Carle block. A very important matter is to be considered. All members are requested to be present and at the time specified.

FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.

By ALFRED W. McCANN (Copyright, 1916, by Alfred W. McCann.)

CHAPTER 54.

There is a remarkable similarity between the pale watery tissues of the hog, including the diseases to which such devitalized tissues offer little or no resistance, and the pasty complexion and anemia of the human being—feeding for fat produces a modification in the composition of the flesh which destroys immunity.

Before reviewing the most startling point on squad experiment ever conducted, either in the name of science or as the result of accident, it will be well for us to emphasize the significance of the Madeira-Mamore tragedy and the lesson learned as the result of the Elizabeth county jail episode by checking up on the laws of nutrition as they are revealed in the feeding of sheep and hogs.

Figures provided by the United States Bureau of Animal Industry show that less than three one-hundredths of 1 per cent. of all the sheep killed in one federal inspected slaughterhouse during a period of twelve months ended November 1, 1913, had to be condemned on account of disease, whereas in another establishment of the same kind one sixth of all the hogs slaughtered during the same twelve months had to be condemned.

This means that for every one sheep found to be diseased 528 hogs were found to be similarly affected. This vast difference in their susceptibility, between the sheep and the hog, in regard to their respective resistance to disease, draws attention to the difference between the methods whereby they are fed.

There are hundreds of astonishing examples of the manner in which the condition of an animal's tissue tone and general health are affected by its food.

Bureau of Animal Industry Bulletin 25, issued December 16, 1913, reports on the fact that cattle fattened on the artificial diet of cottonseed cake and beet pulp, notwithstanding the presence of silage in their food, lost by shrinkage while still alive more than twice as much weight as cattle fed on the natural diet of grasses and the seeds of grasses during transit from point of origin to destination.

September 1909, Dr. Oscar Lieberich of the Imperial College of Health, Berlin (Geheimer Medizinalrath, Ordentlich Professor der Heilmittel, etc.) and Direktor des Pharmakologischen Instituts des Koniglichen Universitats Berlin made the following report on the use of coloring matter by sausage makers:

"It is now close upon half a century since the coloring of pale-colored sausages was introduced. Many farmers and cattle breeders have now adopted the method which enables them to enhance the weight of their cattle and hogs. Instead of feeding, as used to be done, with leavened substances with bran, potatoes, skim milk, etc., the animals now get all sorts of so-called strengthening feeds: Farm-house refuse (tankage, garbage, by-products of breweries, cottonseed meal, exhausted pulp) and the like.

"This method of fattening produces a considerable modification in the composition of the flesh. While under the old system of feeding, animals with solid, substantial, muscular flesh, rich in coloring substance, were produced, the flesh formed by present artificial feeds is very fat, contains a great deal of water, and is very poor in coloring substance.

"The old system of feeding produced the fleshy pork; the new system produces fat pork.

"While formerly sausages were of a rosy red color they are now always pale. Hence the dye must be employed where people want the true character of modern pork to be disguised to resemble what it should be.

Here we have the rapid shrinking of the waterlogged tissues of the artificially fed cattle and the attendant flesh of artificially fed hogs to reach the dangers of refined food in the production of enfeebled vitality and disease.

The sheep still feeds itself as it has fed for thousands of years. It follows nature's instinct. It knows nothing of the artificial by-products upon which dairy cows and hogs are crammed. In consequence it resists nearly all diseases and maintains a state of normal health, as we have seen, that less than three one-hundredths of 1 per cent. of all the sheep killed in federal inspected abattoirs are found to have anything the matter with them.

In 1913 Dr. M. B. Ravenel, professor of bacteriology of the University of Wisconsin made an examination of conditions in the slaughter houses of Wisconsin and other states. In addition to the many other diseases with which he found the hog to be cursed, he declared in his report:

"Twenty per cent. of the average lot of hogs brought to slaughter are tuberculous. These hogs do not develop the disease within themselves, but contract it by feeding on by-products of creameries and following tuberculous cows engaged in the production of milk."

Here we have a startling similarity between the pale, watery tissues of the hog, including the diseases to which such devitalized tissues offer little or no resistance, and the pale complexion, anemia, or hemoglobin deficiency of the human being.

Dr. Rolf Wilson is responsible for the following statement, published in the Medical Times, January, 1914: "L. Babcock, Chicago, rarely finds in city dwellers the hemoglobin above 90," he says, "is the demoralization of the food now put upon the market."

Of course this is not conclusive. It simply means that in the deficiency of certain food minerals in the diet of the hog the same results are noticed as those which are observed in the human animal under similar conditions of mineral deficiency. We shall now see how this similarity has asserted itself in the most extensive, prolonged poison squad experiment of history.

Answers by Alfred W. McCann.

Q. In cutting out the silly lunches which working boys buy in the restaurants of the business sections of the city, what foods would you substitute?

A. (1) Wholesome thick soups made of peas, beans, lentils, seasoned with onions, leeks, etc.

(2) Steaks made of fresh shoulder of lamb with carrots, parsnips, potatoes, onions, etc., served in the thick, rich gravy containing the essence of the vegetables as well as the flavor of the meat.

(3) Pot roast made of lower or top round with carrots, peas, and onions.

(4) Genuine buckwheat cakes, made of real buckwheat (not now to be found in any grocery store in the United States, but still obtainable if demand becomes insistent.) The cakes should be served with pure unsifted molasses, sorghum, or pure maple syrup.

(5) Sandwiches of all kinds made with whole wheat or genuine rye bread.

(6) Old-fashioned oatmeal or barley biscuits served with a bowl of pure, pasteurized milk.

(7) Whole wheat muffins containing currants, raisins, or dates, served with milk.

(8) Old-fashioned cornbread or corn muffins, made of old-fashioned, water-ground cornmeal, containing all the germ and bran now discarded.

(9) Natural brown rice pudding.

(10) Custard made of fresh eggs, not egg powders or corn starch compound.

(11) Banana pudding or apple pudding, made of whole meat, heavy cream, milk, eggs, brown sugar, and the fruits named.

(12) Whole meat apple cake.

(13) Apple salad deluged with custard sauce.

(14) Poached eggs on whole wheat toast.

(15) Baked beans.

(16) Hamburgers made from fresh round without the use of "preservative" or theanhydrous sodium sulphite usually employed by butchers in the preparation of such meat products. The steak should be served with baked potatoes and spinach.

(17) A dozen different layer cakes that can be prepared with pure molasses, whole wheat meal, fresh eggs, sweet butter, corn oil, or coconut fat, with pure chocolate and pure flavors or pure spices and fruits, make fanciful but nutritious foods, and are particularly good when served with pure and whole milk.

Fifteen and twenty cent combinations can be made from this group that will not only appeal to the appetite of any boy, but nourish the growing body. Of course there are many other wholesome dishes that can be included in this list.

It must not be forgotten that girls require the same diet and the same conveniences. The average office girl with her Charlotte rousse and her 10 cents' worth of chocolates for luncheon, makes one wonder what kind of womanhood is ahead of her.

That there are no places where such dishes as those suggested here can be obtained at prices which the young people can afford to pay indicates an inhuman disregard of the welfare of those who, untaught the truth in the matter, are too young and inexperienced to demand better things for themselves.

CALL FOR DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION IS ISSUED

Milwaukee, Wis., May 5.—A call has been issued by Joseph Martin, Green Bay, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, for a meeting of the members of the committee and delegates to the Democratic national convention to be held here on May 11. The main purpose of the meeting will be to elect alternates to the national convention and make plans for opening headquarters for the coming campaign.

The meeting will be called to order at 2 o'clock at the Wisconsin hotel. The delegates will elect a chairman, choose a representative to second the nomination of President Wilson to behalf of the state, name the Wisconsin members of the committee on resolutions and organization, and the representatives to wait on the president and vice president to notify them of their nomination.

Senator Paul O. Husting probably will be the member of the resolutions committee. William P. Wolfe of La Crosse, who has been prominently mentioned as a candidate for United States senator, may be the man to second the nomination of President Wilson for Wisconsin.

The delegates will also take up the choice of a national committeeman to succeed Joseph E. Davies, chairman of the federal trade commission. Martin is a candidate for the job. He will resign his chairmanship of the Wisconsin committee if he is chosen and it will then be necessary to elect another chairman to succeed him.

HATS NOW PAINTED AS WELL AS FACES

New Spring Hat Should Be Painted With Rare Art; If You Are A Fashionable Hat Lover.

By Margaret Wilson. (SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

His arrow's feather Cupid dipped Within a bleeding heart, Then on his Psyche's new spring hat He painted with rare art. And when the summer girl espied This love of a chapeau, She cried, 'I'd give my heart for this! But I've no heart, you know.'

New York, May 5.—Next to your face your hat should be the most painted affair of the season. No, of course not, Gertrude, I'm not insinuating anything. Aren't your hats always next to your face?

All those artists who have been painting the town, or coloring their stories, simply aren't in it any more with the versatile brush wielders who can dash off a landscape or two while you wait.

Birds, fruit and flowers are the choice subjects for these hat master-painters. The artists go in for still life possibly because they believe while there is still life there is hope. Most of the birds are anything but still, however, as they are done in the most striking of colors and all lean toward the parakeet and cockatoo varieties.

The fruit painted hats bear every known fruit, seasonal and unseasonable, in the most realistic manner. Peaches, apples, oranges, strawberries, grapes, pears, plums and citrus fruits cluster together.

What a fortune our orchard crop would realize if only our fruit trees were hat trees.

The hats painted in floral effects run to large blooms like hydrangeas, cabbage roses and poinsettias; even some of the little daisies and gerberas.

You know it is yourself when the house decorators leave a little enamel or radiator bronze behind, how you go around touching up everything in sight.

The same thing evidently has happened to the fashion artists. With the paint left over from the hats they have lavishly gone about decorating evening frocks and afternoon gowns in handpainted festoons, garlands and nosegays.

The plain little tight bodices and button skirts and sensible hats of the evening models are then themselves beautifully to handpainted ornamentation.

A handpainted muslin chiffon or silk frock for a big summer party is perfect apparel when topped with a hand painted hat of like design and finished with handpainted hose and slippers to boot.

Even indeed for the maid who has sense enough to come in out of the rain.

Painted parasols are exceptionally charming. They carry out the design of the rest of your wardrobe, or they may be an original theme.

A lavender one done in clusters of purple and yellow pansies is indeed food for thought. We have long had lamb shades and candle shades, hand painted, so why make light of handpainted sunshades?

Anyway you look a handpainted summer seems imminent. Mind the shades and you will be "Mind-the-paint-girls" and of a necessity "Watch your step" as a watchword will fade into oblivion before the admonition "Mind the paint."

Let us hope we don't all have the painter's colic before the season's over.

NEW WORLD GOVERNMENT ADVOCATED BY SHAW

New York, May 5.—A new government, that might be called the United Sovereignities of the Earth, with a confederation of nations, was suggested by Lester M. Shaw, former secretary of the treasury, in an address before the World Court League at Carnegie Hall here tonight.

No war in the last hundred years has resulted from any justifiable cause, said Mr. Shaw, and he referred to the present rivalry between the United States and Germany, the Japanese objections with regard to California legislation, and other questions that were outside of justifiable matters. Thus far no plan had been formulated for the determination of non-justifiable causes, the world relying only on the hope that some amicable settlement could be reached in such cases.

"Following the Revolutionary war," Mr. Shaw said, "this country existed for six years under articles of confederation, but they were more precarious than the seven preceding years of war. Then we, the people, for the purpose of forming a more perfect union, etc., adopted a constitution, and for the first time insured peace between states and rendered impossible any non-justifiable causes of war. Under our constitution, it is unthinkable that any official or the legislature of New York could insult or outrage the dignity of Pennsylvania. All justifiable questions between the states can now be determined in the courts."

ONE WOMAN MAYOR IS READY TO QUIT HER JOB

Warren, Ill., May 5.—Mrs. Angela R. Canfield, the only woman mayor in Illinois, is ready to quit when her term expires next month.

She says she has had a good time but she's tired of being mayor.

Mrs. Canfield, who runs a millinery shop with which to her husband's yearly income of $12 as mayor of Warren, is going to close out her business and go to California to live.

"Rounding up my boys, the councilmen was great amusement," Mrs. Canfield said today. "My aldermen decided one night that they did not want to call me mayor, and would rather call me president. I told them that Webster was mayor formerly, meant one who kept herds of cattle. They didn't put anything over on me."

Here are some of the improvements Mrs. Canfield accomplished since she took office.

Abolished wife beating and spitting on streets; stopped automobile speeding; closed all beer halls; caused the covering of all gullies, meats and vegetables displayed for sale; and forced economy in electric and gas lighting.

EASY RULES FOR PUNCTUATION.

New Universities Dictionary Presents

One of the first things that must be learned by the young man or woman who sets out to become a thoroughly competent stenographer is the proper use of punctuation. Morris W. Croil, Ph.D., of the Department of English, Princeton University, has contributed an interesting and highly instructive chapter on this subject in The New Universities Dictionary being offered to the readers of this paper.

Professor Croil explains how the number of punctuation marks in common use has gradually increased with the development of the art of printing. Though the use of these signs the meaning of printed or written discourse is rendered clearer to the eye of the reader. How and when to use each of the twelve marks now employed is fully explained by Professor

Croil, and the rules he lays down can be easily learned. The remarkable success which has attended this dictionary offer shows that the people of this city appreciate the opportunity given them to secure at a nominal cost such a valuable educational work.

QUESTIONS ABOUT FOOD

Answers by Alfred W. McCann.

Q. In cutting out the silly lunches which working boys buy in the restaurants of the business sections of the city, what foods would you substitute?

A. (1) Wholesome thick soups made of peas, beans, lentils, seasoned with onions, leeks, etc.

(2) Steaks made of fresh shoulder of lamb with carrots, parsnips, potatoes, onions, etc., served in the thick, rich gravy containing the essence of the vegetables as well as the flavor of the meat.

(3) Pot roast made of lower or top round with carrots, peas, and onions.

(4) Genuine buckwheat cakes, made of real buckwheat (not now to be found in any grocery store in the United States, but still obtainable if demand becomes insistent.) The cakes should be served with pure unsifted molasses, sorghum, or pure maple syrup.

(5) Sandwiches of all kinds made with whole wheat or genuine rye bread.

(6) Old-fashioned oatmeal or barley biscuits served with a bowl of pure, pasteurized milk.

(7) Whole wheat muffins containing currants, raisins, or dates, served with milk.

(8) Old-fashioned cornbread or corn muffins, made of old-fashioned, water-ground cornmeal, containing all the germ and bran now discarded.

(9) Natural brown rice pudding.

(10) Custard made of fresh eggs, not egg powders or corn starch compound.

(11) Banana pudding or apple pudding, made of whole meat, heavy cream, milk, eggs, brown sugar, and the fruits named.

(12) Whole meat apple cake.

(13) Apple salad deluged with custard sauce.

(14) Poached eggs on whole wheat toast.

(15) Baked beans.

(16) Hamburgers made from fresh round without the use of "preservative" or theanhydrous sodium sulphite usually employed by butchers in the preparation of such meat products. The steak should be served with baked potatoes and spinach.

(17) A dozen different layer cakes that can be prepared with pure molasses, whole wheat meal, fresh eggs, sweet butter, corn oil, or coconut fat, with pure chocolate and pure flavors or pure spices and fruits, make fanciful but nutritious foods, and are particularly good when served with pure and whole milk.

Fifteen and twenty cent combinations can be made from this group

WEATHER FORECAST.

Fair tonight and probably Saturday; cooler tomorrow; light to moderate east portion.

ROOSEVELT OR—?

The question that is bothering many politicians right now is, will Roosevelt be the next republican presidential nominee or who will? Thus far the thought appears to be centering on the former, strenuous expression of opinion of many of the country that were against him two years ago is that he will either be the nominee himself or name the man to run.

The fact that he will not permit his name to appear on any of the primary ballots is a demonstration that he is still simply the call of the convention and that when it comes he will be ready. With a reunited republican party pledged to undo the democratic mistakes, and a man like Roosevelt at the head of the ticket, it would not be hard to defeat whoever the democrats should name.

Time was when Roosevelt was the bete noir of the republican party, but just at present he is almost looked upon as the Moses to lead the G. O. F. followers into the promised land. That it will be Roosevelt or the man he selects appears almost certain at the present time, although the next month may change conditions wonderfully.

CIRCUS DAY.

Saturday is circus day. The first of the season. It would appear that it has been arranged to come to Janesville on school holidays to that Young America could enjoy the delights. However, while Young America is enjoying the sights Older America had best see that the doors and windows are securely locked if they leave home for no one can ever tell just what class of visitors a circus will attract to a city. Circus day always has its charms for young and old and many a childless man and woman will look longingly at the more fortunate with a house full of young people who can make excuse to see the wonders under the "big top" where the band plays so entrancingly.

THE ANNUAL "BANQUET."

Nearly every newspaper picked up at this season of the year reports the annual banquet of some organization. The Sons of Rest and the Daughters of Toil are celebrating their glories, and no newspaper report ever catches the true atmosphere of the occasion. It is surprising how literary and civic enthusiasm is promoted by indigestible hot rolls and escalloped oysters and near chicken salad. The speaker may be slow, but the man with a full stomach applauds with a vehemence unknown to windy and empty bellied political rallies. In circles friendly to irrigation, figures of the production of wheat or the crop of wheat are received with fervent and emotional applause.

A heavy responsibility rests upon the toastmaster. It is his duty in introducing his oratorical lions, to give them some proof of humorous persiflage. The audience goes away unsatisfied, unless these ferocious beasts are made to shake their manes with some pungent rejoinder at the expense of the toastmaster.

The alleged humorous story is a fixed part of the program. The speaker invariably introduces it by remarking, "This reminds me." No one ever sees the connection, but every one is satisfied, believing that someone else can see it.

There is a tale how a clergyman once posted his theme as follows: "Sunday at 10:30. 'Be Ye Therefore Steadfast.'" The writing being illegible, a humorist was impressed with the likeness between the word "steadfast" and "breakfast." He made trifling changes with penknife and pencil so that the notice read, "Sunday at 10:30. 'Be ye there for breakfast.'" When the minister reached the church Sunday morning, and found that the audience filled the seats and was standing outside, he felt that at last his eloquence had gained its due appreciation. When he learned the true reason, a conviction gained entrance in his mind that his methods needed radical change.

THE RUBBER STAMP.

That Secretary Lansing had nothing whatever to do with the recent "near-ultimatum" to Germany, the answer to which was received today, except to sign his name to the completed document, is the assertion of a high authority who is close to the White House and in entire sympathy with the administration. This authority says, further, that the ultimatum was penned solely by President Wilson himself and that the only person consulted by Mr. Wilson during the formulation of the document was Mr. Wilson's close friend, Col. E. M. House. It is, of course, true that Colonel House has only recently returned from Germany, where he was sent on a diplomatic mission by the president and it is admitted that he may be better informed as to actual conditions in Berlin than Mr. Lansing. On the other hand, it is pointed out by critics of this method of conducting the state department. Colonel House has never been confirmed by the senate and has never taken the oath of office, swearing to uphold the Constitution, etc., as have all properly installed federal officers. Furthermore, it is contended that the policy of calling in an outsider to assist in a matter so important, and actually ignoring the secretary of state, is bound to detract from the influence of the latter in those important conferences which he is compelled to conduct with the representatives of foreign governments and which could not be conducted by the president if he would because of the great demand on his time which they would involve. It was such methods of administration, which compelled John Bassett Moore, probably the ablest diplomatist in the democratic party, and which, it is freely asserted, must be embarrassing even to Robert Lansing, the present secretary of state.

BOY SCOUT DOINGS.

All over the country branches of the Boy Scout organization are being formed, and are planning for camp life. The boy who formerly couldn't walk a half mile down town to do an errand for his mother, may be able to take a ten mile hike on a Saturday afternoon.

Scout organizations accomplish most when they carry out strictly the regulations of the order. Some patrols are little more than a boy's club. The boys wear a badge and hold meetings, but do not take the prescribed tests and perform the regular Scout program. As the literature and ritual is an intelligent plan for boy development, it is worth while to adhere closely to the standard form.

Boys may seem heedless and inconsiderate, but there is quite a little of the spirit of service in them, if it can be drawn out. The Scout slogan, "Do a good turn daily," appeals to the element in boy nature that likes stories of generosity and chivalry.

Congress may never have heard the speeches uttered in the record that Europe so frequently marked with "applause," but of course the speakers knew where there would have been applause if the speeches had been delivered.

When a real estate promoter lays out some wide and handsome highway, he names it as a "Street," but when he lays out some narrow alley, he calls it an "Avenue" or a "Boulevard."

About now the vegetarians are telling us to give up meat, and if a diet of carrots, parsnips, and beets does not agree with you, all you have to do is to eat beets, parsnips and carrots.

The fact that a soldier may make a heroic attack on the trenches in Europe does not prove that he would dash up in a United States army aeroplane.

Success as a stock broker depends merely on ability to scare people to death when you want to buy, and to inflate them with hopes when you want to sell.

It is surprising what a patriotic and fervent interest a man takes in the duty of attending the party primary when he conceives the dream of some day running for the legislature.

If you want to find something to talk about in society, you will get much more material at the automobile show than by attending lectures on the Shakespeare anniversary.

There is intense and fervent denunciation of pork barrel methods from congressional districts that got no river and harbor money.

The Mothers' Congress should take up questions that really bother the modern mother, like how to get control of the suits in auction bridge.

The speeches on our side in politics are ringing blasts from the bugle, but on the other, merely toots from the same old fish horn.

Although no one is yet reported to be a candidate for vice-president, the office can probably be filled by raising the pay.

TONIGHT'S MEETING AT THE METHODIST CHURCH PROMISES BIG SURPRISE

Somebody is going to be mightily surprised at the gathering at the Carle Methodist church this evening and the members of the church are urged to be present and see who it is if they do not already know. It is a most acceptable surprise, too, and one well worth being present to witness. There is to be a program and a delicious luncheon, so be sure and be present.

CHAUTAUQUA PLANS DISCUSSED TODAY

Meeting for Election of Board of Directors of Local Association is Held This Afternoon.

A meeting of the guarantors for the Lincoln Chautauqua, which will be held in this city on July 19 to 24, was held this afternoon at the office of the local secretary, Reverend George E. Parison, for the purpose of electing a board of directors and officers to take charge of the financing, ticket sale, and other details of the chautauqua which are left to the management. Mr. R. Marston of the Lincoln company attended the meeting.

Mr. Marston gave assurances that the chautauqua will be supplied with a big tent, to the highest quality of khaki cloth, water proof, breaking the glare of the sun, insuring coolness and comfort in any kind of weather. The seating arrangements would be adequate, all seats being provided with backs. A fine electric lighting system is provided.

During the week of the chautauqua the usual superintendent in charge of the platform, and two crew men will have charge of the properties and look after the comfort of the public.

A young people's chautauqua worker will also remain during the whole session. The program will extend over six days. Practically every afternoon and every night there will be a double program consisting of musical preture and lecture, or grand and entertainment. There will be six musical companies, as follows: Lyric Glee Club, Tyrolean Alpine Yodlers, The Schroeder Quintet, Brook's Band, Emerson-Winters Co. and Pauline Harrington Co. The lecturers are Nannie Webb Curtis, Olin Mason Caward, Simon Damron, Maynard Lee Daggy, Dr. James R. Gettys and that superbly headlined, Lincoln McConner.

In addition to the entertainment rendered by the musical companies are the following entertainers: Prof. Daggy and Edwin Brush. In addition to this a highly efficient and specially trained worker will have charge of the young people's chautauqua to be conducted every forenoon. This will include playground work and the story hour. This is one of the most important features of the chautauqua and in many places educators and parents have said that this alone is worth the price of a season ticket.

The management believes there is no finer six day program put on anywhere this year. The Lincoln people have set a very high standard in their chautauqua offerings and have so conscientiously lived up to this standard that they are enabled to give the best of satisfaction and create the profoundest of enthusiasm so that they can return to their towns year after year and make the chautauqua a permanent feature in the community which stands not only for fine entertainment and educational uplift, but also secures for the town a high degree of the most desirable kind of publicity and also makes a most valuable contribution towards community building.

Local shoe dealers are receiving notices from manufacturers and leather supply firms almost weekly of the advancing price in all grades of leather. Quotations on green leather have jumped from 32 and 35 cents to 65 and 75 cents, and the prices on shoes have increased for the wholesale trade as much as 40 cents at one time. Other advances have been around 10 and 15 cents.

By fall it is predicted that women and children will be wearing shoes of the heavy leathers as the supply of the vici kid is practically exhausted. This leather is imported from European countries and no consignments are at present obtainable. Even shoes made of the extra heavy leathers, such as are worn by farmers, teamsters and laborers, will advance in price and the stock, much of which comes from England, is almost exhausted. The supply of imported leathers is extremely low, and very little is being received from Russia, Switzerland, Germany and other leather producing countries. Domestic leathers are not sufficient nor of the quality desired for the trade, which puts the shoe trade in a precarious position, seriously affecting the general public.

Candidate For County Clerk

To the Voters of Rock Co.:

I wish to announce at this time that I am a candidate for County Clerk. You are aware that the term of the present County Clerk expires Jan. 1st, 1917, and that there is to be a County Clerk elected this year. And as in recent years, he will be practically elected at the Primaries to be held on Tuesday, September 6th, 1916.

In submitting my candidacy for your consideration I wish to say that, if elected, I shall try to bear in mind that I am your hired servant and pledge you active service, efficient and courteous treatment at all times.

The new law passed by the last legislature designating that the County Clerk should also be County Auditor of all county officers handling public money or collecting fees, places the office of County Clerk where it requires a trained man with a thorough knowledge of the fundamental principles of bookkeeping.

In your personal affairs of this nature you would hardly engage a novice, who would have to do this work by proxy. You would say at once that such work was causing too much lost motion. Efficiency reduces lost motion. The public has a right to expect efficiency, and this work can best be done by one who has had special training with practice in this line of work.

I worked several years as bookkeeper for the Rock County Sugar Co. and was head bookkeeper for them during the last year of their running, and for the past two years have been bookkeeper for the Rock River Woolen Mills, of Janesville, and am in their employ as such at present. This work has made me perfectly familiar with bookkeeping and auditing methods and all such work of the county will be well cared for.

I am thoroughly familiar with the general run of office work, records, etc., and also with the labor saving machinery which the County Board has generously provided for the County Clerk's office.

Having served as Town Clerk for a period of over ten years I have a working knowledge of all details between the County Clerk's office and the different Town Offices and this part of the work will be taken care of courteously and efficiently.

I shall be pleased to have your support, and hope you will consider this a personal appeal for your interest in my candidacy at the coming Primaries.

Yours very truly,

W. B. Davis.

Pyorrhea Now Curable

This gum disease is the reason for the bleeding in your mouth every time you use a tooth brush.

It's the cause for that oozing and bad taste from around your teeth.

Unless cured, this disease will loosen and destroy every tooth in your head.

I am having wonderful results with my new Violet Ray, High Frequency Electric Machine, which affects cures in half the time necessary heretofore.

COUNTY SCHOOL MEN ORGANIZE SOCIETY

Male Teachers of County Get Together and Form Organization.

The Rock County Schoolmasters' club was organized here last night with a membership of twenty-five teachers of the county. County Superintendent O. C. Antisdel, City School Superintendent H. C. Buell and Principal T. B. Converse of Beloit were appointed as a committee to arrange for future meetings. The purpose of the organization is for a unification of educational matters in the county, better if possible than those now in use.

The meeting was held at the Myers Hotel, dinner being served at 7 o'clock. A good share of the evening was given over to educational matters, although considerable discussion was had on the idea of making the organization permanent.

No formal program has been arranged but the new ruling of the state normal school regents, relative to a high school graduate attending a county teachers' training school being accredited with two years' normal school credit, was given consideration. This ruling gives better recognition than formerly to high school graduates and is expected to prove an impetus for more high school graduates attending county training schools when they can secure normal school credits at home. Vocational training in grades and high schools and the effect of the present conditions on the supply of teachers and their qualifications were also discussed.

Principal J. H. McNeel, Superintendent P. C. Converse, C. P. O'Brien, C. Rayson, J. R. Shul, Charles Berk, J. H. Van Plev and C. E. Both, Beloit; Principal J. F. Waddell, F. H. Neff and Principal R. V. Hurley, Milton; Superintendent H. C. Buell, E. Barber, J. T. Shearer, H. Dutcher, W. Werrill, J. R. Grueniesen, E. Keck, J. Arrubul, F. Hill, F. J. Lowth, O. D. Antisdel and Mr. Goss were among those present.

The members of the L. A. P. O. E. 724 are requested to meet at Mrs. Geo. E. Bessie, 103 North Franklin street, tonight at sharp 8 o'clock to go in a body to see Sister Elit. Mabel M. Malbon, recording secretary.

OBITUARY.

Lewis Sigwell

Lewis Sigwell, age sixty-two, died at his home on 624 Prairie Avenue, this morning after a period of illness of three weeks. He was born on a farm near Whitewater and has lived in this city for the past twenty-five years. Mr. Sigwell is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Huber of California, one brother, George, of this city, three sisters, Martha Sigwell, Mrs. Amie Olson of California and Mrs. W. B. Chamberlain, of Whitewater.

The funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at three o'clock and at four-forty they will be taken to Whitewater where interment will be made. Rev. Thorson of the Norwegian Lutheran church of this city will conduct the services.

Special meeting of Rock Lodge No. 736 P. A. W. is hereby called for the purpose to make arrangement for the funeral of Sister Agnes B. Hill. Meeting will be held at the home of Chas. Kruse, 220 N. Jackson Street at 8:30 P. M. Chas. E. Kienow, secretary.

Mrs. James Zankas received word this morning of the death of her younger sister in Copenhagen.

Reading Room Closed: The reading room in the library will be closed Sunday afternoon from the 7th day of May until October 1st.

Get Up Right.

Get up right in the morning. Go to bed right at night. Start with joy in your heart, hope in the future, kindness in your purpose.

If it is a dark day never mind; you will lighten it up. If it is a bright day you will add to the brightness. Give a word of cheer, a kindly greeting and a warm handshake to your friends.

If your enemies look up pass them by, forget and try to forgive.

If all of us would bear in mind that happiness is from within and not from without there would be a well spring of joy in every heart and the sun would shine forever.

Try it.—Leslie's Weekly.

Preventive of Tarnish.

To keep brass beds and other kinds of brass work from tarnishing, and also to avoid frequent polishing, the brass should be lacquered with gum shellac dissolved in alcohol. The lacquer should be applied with a small paint brush. Ten cents worth of it will lacquer a bedstead.

Spring time is moving time. If you have a house to rent, let it be known through a Gazette want ad.

CARRIE JACOBS BOND IS GIVEN RECEPTION

Noted Composer of Songs and Former Janesville Woman Given Welcome Reception at San Diego Fair.

Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond, the noted composer of heart songs, who made Janesville her home in her early life, was given a record-breaking reception at the San Diego exposition on April 27th. Mrs. Bond is the first person to be honored during the 1916 exposition by having a special day named after her. Nature did not best on that day to assist in the entertainment by the opening of which is the title of the song-writer's best known and most widely sung song, "A Perfect Day."

Mrs. Bond and her party were driven to the exposition in the afternoon. At the California building Mrs. Bond was received by a score of women representing the women's board, and the musicians of San Diego. During the reception a group of singers from the Hawaiian village selected Mrs. Bond. At the organ recital which followed there was but one composer represented—Carrie Jacobs Bond.

Mrs. Bond was welcomed as a neighbor, being welcomed in the Rosemont, California, and in common with Madame Schumann-Heink is considered a loyal San Diegoan. A battalion drill on the Plaza of Panama was given for the inspection of the Bond party, after which the Tommasini's band gave a concert on the Plaza, playing Bond compositions only, and Mrs. Bond's latest composition, "California," was sung.

The party was greeted by the largest crowd ever known in the California building. Mrs. Bond gave talk in which she said she was not one of the greatest composers, as the newspapers had said, but simply a composer of home songs, and wanted the people to love her for the pleasure they get in hearing in music of the humble things of life. Her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jacobs, of Chicago, were in the party.

Mrs. Bond will be at her home at Grossmont, beyond San Diego, until late in the fall, when she will return to her home in Chicago.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Miss Lottie Jacobson is spending several days in Milwaukee with friends and relatives.

Mrs. Roland Miller of Lake Geneva is visiting at the home of Mrs. J. B. Sprackling, 828 Milwaukee avenue.

Miss Evelyn Cowley, South Jackson street, is convalescing after a week's illness with a gripple.

Announcements have been received of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. David Spencer Williams of Minneapolis. Mrs. Williams is the daughter of Mrs. John Holt, Prairie avenue.

Mrs. Allen Welsh was operated on for appendicitis at the St. Anthony's Hospital, in Rockford, Thursday morning.

The ladies of the St. John's Lutheran church will hold a home baking and fancy work sale Saturday, May 6th at the church basement. Coffee and cake will be served.

"Great heavens!" he exclaimed. "Today's the day! In the hustle I had forgotten it, and I'll bet old David has—if he hasn't simply ignored it. That accounts for the reunion at the Metropolitan.

"Don't worry," said Harlan easily. "The bank has gone, vanished, shut up shop. At the end of the ends, I suppose, they can make David pay; but they can't very well pinch him for not meeting his notes on the dot."

"Massingale doesn't really owe them anything that he can't pay," Brouillard asserted. "By wiring and writing and digging up figures, we found that the capitalizing stockholders, otherwise J. Wesley Cortwright, and possibly Schermerhorn, have actually invested fifty-two thousand dollars, or, rather, that amount of Massingale's loan has been expended in equipment and payrolls. Three weeks ago the old man got the smelter superintendent over here from Red Butte and arranged for an advance of fifty-two thousand dollars on the ore in stock, the money to be paid when the first train of ore cars should be on the way in. It was paid promptly in New York exchange, and Massingale indorsed the draft over to me to be used in the directors' meeting, which was never held."

"Go over and flash Massingale's fifty-two thousand dollars at 'em. They'll turn loose. I'll bet a yellow cow worth fifteen cents that they're wishing there was a train out of this little section of Sheel right now. Hear that!"

The crash of an explosion rattled the windows, and the red loom on the Jack's mountain side of the town leaped up and became a momentary glare. The fell spirit of destruction, of objectless wreck and ruin, was abroad, and Brouillard turned to the stairway door.

"I'll have to be making the rounds again," he said. "The Greeks and Italians are too excitable to stand much of this. Take care of yourself; I'll leave Griff and a dozen of the trustees to look after the shop."

CHAPTER XXIV The Terror

When Brouillard reached the sidewalk the upper avenue was practically deserted. But in the eastern residence district, and well around to the north, new storm-centers were marked by the increasing number of fires. Brouillard stopped and faced toward the distant and invisible Timanyonis. A chill autumn breeze was sweeping down from the heights and the blockading wall of the great dam turned it into eddies and dust-pilled whirls dancing in the empty street.

Young Griffith sauntered up with his Winchester in the hollow of his arm. "Anything new?" he asked.

"No," said Brouillard. "I was just thinking that a little wind would go a long way tonight, with these crazy house-burners loose on the town." Then he turned and walked rapidly to the government headquarters, passed the sentry at the door of the mapping room; and out of the fireproof vault where the drawings and blue-print duplicates were kept took a small tin dispatch box.

He had opened the box and had transferred a slip of paper from it to the leather-covered pocket field book which served him for a wallet, when there was a stir at the door and Castner hurried in, looking less the clergyman than the hard-working peace officer.

"More bedlam," he announced. "I want Gassman or Handley and twenty or thirty good men. The mob has gone from wrecking and burning to murdering. Pegleg John was beaten to death in front of his saloon a few minutes ago. It is working this way. There were three fires in the plaza as I came through."

"See Grislow at the commissary and tell him I sent you," said the chief. "I'd go with you, but I'm due at the Metropolitan."

"Good. Then Miss Amy got word to you? I was just about to deliver her message."

"Miss Massingale? Where is she, and what was the message?" demanded Brouillard.

"Then you haven't heard? The 'Little Susan' is in the hands of a sheriff's posse, and David Massingale is under arrest on some trumped-up charge—something of that sort. Miss Amy didn't go into particulars, but she told me that she had heard the sheriff say it was a penitentiary offense."

"But where is she now?" stormed Brouillard.

"Over at the hotel. I supposed you knew; you said you were going there." Brouillard snatched up the dispatch box and flung it into the fireproof. While he was locking the door Castner went in search of Grislow, and when Brouillard faced about, another man stood in the missionary's place by the mapping table. It was Mr. J. Wesley Cortwright.

The gray-faced promoter had lost something of his old-time jaunty assurance, and he was evidently well shaken and unnerved by the sights and sounds of the night of terror. The sandy-gray eyes advertised it as well as the fat hands, which would not keep still.

"I didn't think I'd have to ask a favor of you again, Brouillard, but needs must when the devil drives," he began, with an attempted assumption of his former manner. "We didn't know—the newspapers didn't tell us anything about this frightful state of affairs, and—"

Brouillard had suddenly lost his desire to hurry.

"Sit down, Mr. Cortwright," he said. "I was just coming over to see you—to congratulate you and Mr. Schermerhorn on your return to Mirapolis. We have certainly missed the mayor, not to mention the president of the common council."

"Of course—yes," was the hurried rejoinder. "But that's all over. You said you'd get us, and you did. I don't bear malice. If you had given me one more day I'd have got you; the stuff that would have broken your neck with the Washington people was all written and ready to put on the wires. But that's past and gone, and the next thing is something else. There is a lot of money and securities locked up in the Niangua bank vault. We've come to clean up, and we brought a few peace officers along from Red Butte for a guard. The miserable scoundrels are scared stiff; they won't stir out of the hotel. Bongras tells me you've got your force organized and armed—can't you lend us fifty or a hundred huskies to keep the mob off while we open that bank vault?"

Brouillard's black eyes snapped, and the blood danced in his veins. The opportunity for which he would have bartered Ormuz treasure had come to him—was begging him to use it. "I certainly can," he admitted, answering the eager question and emphasizing the potentiality.

"But will you? That's the point. We'll make it worth your while. For God's sake, don't say no, Brouillard! There's pretty well up to a million in that vault, counting odds and ends and left-overs. Schermerhorn oughtn't to have left it. I thought he had sense enough to stay and see it taken care of. But now—"

"But now the mob is very likely to wreck the building and dynamite the vault, you were going to say. I think it is more than likely, Mr. Cortwright, and I wonder that it hasn't been done before this. It would have been done if the rioters had had any idea that you'd left anything worth taking. And it would probably wreck you and Mr. Schermerhorn if it should get hold of you; you've both been burned in effigy half a dozen times since you ran away."

"Oh, good Lord!" shuddered the magnate. "Make it two hundred of your men, and let's hurry. You won't turn us down on this, Brouillard?"

"No. It is no part of our duty to go and keep the mob off while you save your stealings, but we'll do it. And from the noise they are making down that way, I think you are wise in suggesting haste. But first there is a question of common justice to be settled. An hour ago, or such a matter, you sent a part of your sheriff's posse up to seize the 'Little Susan' and to arrest David Massingale."

"It's—it's a lie!" stammered Cortwright. "Somebody has been trying to backcap me to you!"

Brouillard looked up, frowning.

"You are a good bit older man than I am, Mr. Cortwright, and I shan't punch your head. But you'll know why I ought to when I tell you that my informant is Miss Amy Massingale. What have you done with old David?"

The man who had lost his knack of bluffing came down and stayed down. "He's—he's over at the hotel," he stammered.

"Under guard?"

"Well—yes."

Brouillard pointed to the telephone on the wall.

"Go and call up your crowd and get it here. Tell Judge Williams to bring the stock he is holding, and Schermerhorn to bring the Massingale notes, and your man Jackson to bring the stock-book. We'll have a directors' meeting that was called, and wasn't held, three weeks ago."

It was a crude little expedient, but it sufficed. Cortwright tramped to the phone and cursed and swore at it until he had his man at the other end of the wire. The man was the lawyer, as it appeared, and Cortwright abused him spitefully.

"You've bailed it—bailed it beautifully!" he shouted. "Come over here to Brouillard's office and bring Schermerhorn and the stock and the notes and Massingale and your infernal self! Get a move, and get it quick! We stand to lose the whole lot because you had to butt in and sweep up the crumbs first!"

When the procession arrived, as it did in an incredibly short time, Brouillard laid down the law.

"We don't need these," he said curtly, indicating the two deputies who came to bring David Massingale. And when they were gone: "Now, gentlemen, get to work and do business, and the less time you waste the better chance there will be for your bank salvage. Three requirements I make: you will turn over the stock, putting Mr. Massingale in possession of his mine, without incumbrance; you will cancel and surrender his notes to the bank; and you will give him a document, signed by all of you, acknowledging the payment in full of all claims, past or pending. While you are straightening things out, I'll ring up the yards and rally your guard."

Cortwright turned on the lawyer. "You hear what Brouillard says; fix it, and do it suddenly."

It was done almost before Brouillard had made Leshington, in charge of the yards, understand what was wanted.

"Now a note to your man at the mine to make him let go without putting us to the trouble of throwing him over the dump," said the engineer, when he had looked over the stock transfers, examined the canceled notes, and read and witnessed the signatures on the receipt in full.

Cortwright nodded to the lawyer, and when Williams began to write again the king of the promoters turned upon Brouillard with a savage sneer.

"Once more you've had your price," he snarled bitterly. "You and the old man have bilked us out of what we spent on the mine. But we'll call it an even break if you'll hurry that gang of huskies."

"We'll call it an even break when it is one," retorted Brouillard; and after he had gathered up the papers he took the New York check from his pocket-book, indorsed it, and handed it to Cortwright. "That is what was spent out of the hundred thousand dollars you had Mr. Massingale charged with, as nearly as we can ascertain. Take it and take care of it; it's real money."

He had turned again to the telephone to hurry Leshington, had rung the call, and was chuckling grimly over the collapse of the four men at the end of the mapping table as they fingered the slip of money paper. Suddenly it was borne in upon him that there was trouble of some sort at the door—there were curses, a blow, a mad rush; then . . . It was Stephen Massingale who had fought his way past the door-guard sentry and stood blinking at the group at the far end of the mapping board.

"You're the houn' dog I'm lookin' for!" he raged, singling out Cortwright when the dazzle of the electric per-

"Oh, good Lord!" shuddered the magnate. "Make it two hundred of your men, and let's hurry. You won't turn us down on this, Brouillard?"

"No. It is no part of our duty to go and keep the mob off while you save your stealings, but we'll do it. And from the noise they are making down that way, I think you are wise in suggesting haste. But first there is a question of common justice to be settled. An hour ago, or such a matter, you sent a part of your sheriff's posse up to seize the 'Little Susan' and to arrest David Massingale."

"It's—it's a lie!" stammered Cortwright. "Somebody has been trying to backcap me to you!"

Brouillard looked up, frowning.

"You are a good bit older man than I am, Mr. Cortwright, and I shan't punch your head. But you'll know why I ought to when I tell you that my informant is Miss Amy Massingale. What have you done with old David?"

The man who had lost his knack of bluffing came down and stayed down. "He's—he's over at the hotel," he stammered.

"Under guard?"

"Well—yes."

Brouillard pointed to the telephone on the wall.

"Go and call up your crowd and get it here. Tell Judge Williams to bring the stock he is holding, and Schermerhorn to bring the Massingale notes, and your man Jackson to bring the stock-book. We'll have a directors' meeting that was called, and wasn't held, three weeks ago."

It was a crude little expedient, but it sufficed. Cortwright tramped to the phone and cursed and swore at it until he had his man at the other end of the wire. The man was the lawyer, as it appeared, and Cortwright abused him spitefully.

"You've bailed it—bailed it beautifully!" he shouted. "Come over here to Brouillard's office and bring Schermerhorn and the stock and the notes and Massingale and your infernal self! Get a move, and get it quick! We stand to lose the whole lot because you had to butt in and sweep up the crumbs first!"

When the procession arrived, as it did in an incredibly short time, Brouillard laid down the law.

"We don't need these," he said curtly, indicating the two deputies who came to bring David Massingale. And when they were gone: "Now, gentlemen, get to work and do business, and the less time you waste the better chance there will be for your bank salvage. ## Had Suffered For Over Eight Years

Doctors Advised an Operation but Simple Remedy Made it Unnecessary.

For over eight years Mr. U. S. G. Henry, 806 East 6th St., Oklahoma City, had suffered with stomach and liver trouble until finally he could no longer stand the pain. He says: "The doctors told me nothing but an operation would give me relief. I decided to first try Fruitola and Traxo, which relieved me of a quantity of gall stones and I have no further pain or trouble from my old complaint. I would not take $500.00 for what your remedies have done for me."

Fruitola, as the name implies, is a pure fruit oil, combined with certain harmless salts, and acts as a lubricant on the intestinal parts, softening the congested masses, disintegrating the hardened particles that cause so much suffering and expelling the accumulation to the patient's great relief. Traxo acts on the liver and kidneys, stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion and removes bile from the general circulation. It is a splendid tonic and serves to build up and restore the weakened run-down system.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Janesville they can be obtained at J. P. Baker, 123 W. Millw. St.

men on bases and nobody out. The next man up was the best batter on the team, if not in the entire league. He advanced to the plate swinging three bats and wearing a confident smile on his face. The stands were in an uproar of enthusiasm.

Suddenly the umpire stepped forward and held up his hand. "Game called on account of darkness," he announced.

He leaves a widow and three children.

Don't Let Soap Spoil Your Hair

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is just plain mul-tilified coconut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few cun-ces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

TANLAC may be obtained here at Smith's Drug Store.

Mr. Withers and James Allen of Lake Geneva, were here Monday in the interest of electric service for Clinton and met with the village board Monday evening. The latter passed a resolution to accept the proposition of The Southern Wisconsin Electric and Power Company and village attorney was instructed to draw up a franchise granting the above company the use of the village streets and alleys. A contract will also be entered into with the company to light our streets and alleys, and to furnish power for the purpose of pumping the city water and power for the gas machine. By this arrangement both the street lighting and water pumping will be much cheaper than at present and services of one man and probably two dispensed with, and at same time the lighting streets every night and all night where as now they are run on moonlight schedule and only until 10 o'clock except Saturday nights when they run until 11 o'clock. A strong effort will be made to install the boulevard system of lighting from the railroad tracks north on Main street to Cross street and it is hoped that it can be accomplished as it will give our business section a very much better appearance.

The material has already been ordered and the company expects to be here ready for business in less than sixty days. Stores and houses will be wired before that time so the service can begin immediately. The stringing of the service wire reaches Clinton.

Article No. 5.—Swimming on the Back.

By LOUIS DE B. HANDLEY.

[Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.]

IT is to be regretted that swimming on the back is so much neglected in this country. The average bather seldom gives it a thought and seems satisfied with any old stroke, while the number of racing men competing in the very few events held at this style of natation is conspicuously small.

Yet swimming on the back is not only an essential feature of the life saver's art, but an excellent means of physical development and a speedy and comfortable method of aquatic progression. A correct back stroke carries along at good pace and can be sustained over the distances. Furthermore, other muscles are brought into play than those used in free style swimming, so that considerable energy can be saved by resorting to it at intervals in covering long courses, whether for pleasure or in competition.

Several forms of back stroke are at the disposal of the swimmer. He may, same kick which free style swimmers have held with ease over courses of ten and more miles should tire its exponents so readily when performed in supine position.

Considerable discussion has taken place in regard to the application of power in back crawl thrash, some maintaining that the legs should press up hard and be lowered slowly, others that both movements should be made vigorously. In the writer's opinion both methods are incorrect. If we dissect the crawl thrash, in fact, we find it composed of a sequence of very narrow scissors kicks from which impetus is gained in snapping the legs together, first one and then the other playing the leading role, as does the under leg in the scissors kick used with the trudgeon.

If this be admitted the logical conclusion is that the thrashing legs perform a positive and driving movement only from widest opening to when they meet, then starting to recover in negative movement of resistance until they are again fully opened. Obviously,

Y. M. C. A. BANQUETS ONE HUNDRED GUESTS LAST NIGHT

Milton Junction, May 5.—The Y. M. C. A. gave a complimentary banquet to a number of invited guests at the Woodman Hall Thursday evening. This was their first public effort to demonstrate to our citizens the work which they have undertaken in this community. A. E. Matheson of Janesville was the principal speaker of the evening. Short remarks were made by J. M. Gahagan, F. M. Warner, F. R. Morris, Jr., and Ray Hull. Over a hundred guests were present.

The district schools of the town of Milton held a contest at our local high school Thursday afternoon on the subjects arithmetic, spelling and penmanship. Margaret Bartz of the Rock River school won first place and Ethel Miller of the Otter Creek school won second place. The Misses Bartz and Miller will attend the county contest which will be held in Janesville in June.

The Wasted Deductions.

—No matter how wide a fellow keeps his eyes peeled, he always misses something.—Prof. Simpson.

"One moment, please," said the great detective as the bald headed woman started to speak. "You were a seamstress before your marriage, your paternal grandfather had an artificial knee, your husband ran off with a blonde manicurist yesterday, your little Pekinese spaniel was stolen this morning and I want to sue for damages."

"Wonderful! Extraordinary!" exclaimed the bald headed woman. "Simply perfect!"

"Perfectly simple," replied the great detective.

"Then you must know about my wig, too," said the woman.

"Your wig?" said the great detective, for the fact that the woman was bald had completely escaped him.

"Yes, I have just let it and I want to sue for damages."

"But I'm a detective. I have nothing to do with the law."

"What! Isn't this Lawyer Pappr's office?"

"Good-day, madame," said the detective coldly, and he seized his violin and began rudely picking his teeth with it.

WHITESTAR MAN OF SIXTY SHOTS SELF THIS MORNING

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Whitewater, May 5.—G. W. Gower committed suicide this morning by shooting himself in the temple with a revolver at his home on East street. He was a man of about sixty years of age and had been in ill health for some time. He leaves a wife.

Samuel Bullock died at his home on Janet street at three o'clock at the age of eighty-four years and eleven months. The funeral will be held at the home at 10 o'clock Monday and burial will be at Johnson's.

Word was received here this morning of the death of Lewis Sigwell at 2:30 a. m. at Janesville. He was sixty years old and was born and raised in this city. The deceased was a shaper here and later moved to Janesville. A daughter is living in California. The body will be brought here Sunday afternoon at 5:30 and taken directly to the grave. He was a member of the M. W. A. and an escort from the local lodge will accompany the remains to the cemetery.

Art Duening, the new night police, had his first job Tuesday evening when he caught Will O'Brien, red-handed robbing the cash register at the F. N. Bleisath's saloon. "Buckle" had gained entrance through a rear door and when once inside made for the cash register. He was caught by the night officer, who took him to the local jail.

About thirty members of the local Masonic lodge went to Palmyra last evening to attend the lodge at that place, where the Master Mason degree was given. A splendid banquet was given after the meeting, served by members of the Eastern Star.

The declamatory and oratorical contest will be held at Fort Atkinson tonight and the local school will be represented by Miss Grace Fowler and Adolph Schoecher.

The local order of the Knights of Columbus held its annual banquet on the fourth anniversary last evening at Hotel Walworth and eighty-one covers were laid. After the banquet they returned to the lodge room, where dancing and other amusements were enjoyed. Several members of the Janesville K. C. Lodge were present.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Elmer returned yesterday from Janesville, where they have been for several days. While there Mr. Elmer was in Mercy hospital and underwent a slight operation. He is getting along well.

SWIMMING ON THE BACK.

Swimming on the back is one of the most useful accomplishments of the aquatic expert. A round, full armed sweep of both arms over the head, with hands slightly cupped and with a kick, as described in the accompanying article, will propel one at a fair rate of speed.

In fact, adopt the movements of the breast stroke, trudgeon, crawl and trudgeon-crawl, changing only to the extent of meeting the requirements of the altered position of the body.

The double overarm, better known as the English racing stroke, is practically an inverted breast stroke. The arms start from down alongside and sweep upward in recovery—hands passing over the middle of the body—then straighten above the head, dip with palms turned outward, catch the water firmly and drive down to the thighs with strong, even pull, straight at the elbow, hands slightly cupped, fingers close together, thumbs upmost, performing a half circle just below the surface.

The legs open with a downward and outward movement, so that the knees will not rise above water, then snap upward and inward vigorously. This gives double impetus to the drive.

The opening of the legs should begin as the arms start in recovery, so that the snap together may be made as soon as the arms attain full reach above the head. During the arm pull the legs trail on the surface, stretched out and relaxed, with feet close and pointing back, as in standing on tip-toe. Particular attention should be paid to opening the legs very slowly, as the movement is a negative one of resistance.

It is possible to use a narrow scissors kick or crawl thrash with this stroke instead of the frog kick, but these drives adapt themselves far better to an alternate action of the arms.

The back trudgeon, crawl and trudgeon-crawl all call for this alternate arm pull, and the difference between them is merely one of kick, though it is advisable to roll a little more heavily in the trudgeon and trudgeon-crawl in order to secure a slanting and more effective direction in performing the narrow scissors prescribed.

In all three strokes the arms follow one another equidistantly—namely, as one enters the water to drive the other should be leaving it in recovery. Both perform the same movements, starting from alongside, going up over the body bent at the elbow, then catching as the body rolls and whipping down vigorously to the hips, comfortably extended.

In swimming the back crawl the legs move up and down alternately and continuously at whatever speed is suitable to the resources of the individual and the distance to be covered. The rhythmic thrushes consist of two, four and six beats to each complete stroke of the two arms, like in the true crawl, and it must be left to the swimmer to experiment and discover which best fits his natural characteristics.

It is still claimed by many that the back crawl can be used only for sprinting and is solely a speed stroke, but facts prove the contrary. There is no reason, indeed, why practically the therefore, half the upward sweep of the under leg and half the downward beat of the upper should be made energetic and the other half of both with relaxed muscles—this, of course, in the back crawl, for in the crawl proper the driving movements are reversed.

To the average swimmer the point may seem small and immaterial, but it is just these small distinctions which make all the difference in swimming. Unfortunately most competitors will not take the trouble to analyze their strokes and study them in detail.

The back trudgeon-crawl may be performed with one or two small scissors kicks and a fluttering motion of the feet between to make the action continuous. The major drives or scissors are all that distinguish it from the back crawl.

Air should be inhaled as the arms are carried over the body in recovery and exhaled while the arms are driving. This method is the very opposite to the one used in swimming face down, but there are excellent reasons for advocating it.

To begin with, the movements lend themselves to this mode of respiration, for in raising the arms to recover the chest is expanded, and this facilitates the intake, while in driving the arms are lowered, which tends to contract the chest and expel the air from the lungs. Then, too, the lifting of the arms results in a slight sinking of the body, and it is possible to counteract it in part by inflating the lungs and thus increasing the buoyancy.

One of the most difficult problems in back stroke swimming is to find the most advantageous position. If the head is thrown back too far it not only offers unnecessary resistance, but the water will splash over the face and interfere with one's breathing, while if the head is held too high the body sags in the middle, and the drag is even greater.

Practice only can tell the exact slant to be sought, but the aim should be to minimize as much as possible the resisting surface and at the same time ease the action of the arms.

That the modern back strokes have yet to be fully exploited is the prevalent opinion among experts, and the fact is not surprising, for the sport has a small following. There is reason to believe, however, that as the back crawl and trudgeon-crawl become better known the present records will be smashed to pieces.

In swimming the middle and long distances on the back some excellent performances have been made. G. H. Webster of Halifax, the English champion, is credited with swimming a mile in 26 minutes 28 seconds, about a minute behind the American free style record, and in the five mile championship of the Thames he finished fifth in a field of thirty. This indicates that the back strokes are not as slow as generally supposed.

The Magnetic Power of the Uplifted Christ

By REV. W. W. KETCHUM
Director of the Practical Course,
Meady Bible Institute of Chicago

TEXT—And if I be lifted up will draw all men unto me.—John 12:32.

There should be no question as to what Christ meant by the expression, "lifted up." If so, it should be at once set aside, for the evangelist interprets the words for us: "This he said, signifying what death he should die."

In three other places in John's gospel this expression "lifted up" is used. In the third chapter, the fourteenth verse, where we read: "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of Man be lifted up." Again in the eighth chapter, twenty-eighth verse: "When ye have lifted up the Son of Man, then shall ye know that I am he." And in the twelfth chapter, where the people in response to Christ's words in our text reply: "We have heard out of the law that Christ abideth forever; and how sayest thou, the Son of Man must be lifted up?" It is very evident from this reply that they understood him to mean by the expression "lifted up," his death. And so a careful study of the use of this expression in this gospel convinces one that by it is meant Christ's death upon the cross.

Christ, therefore, in our text tells us that through his death there would come to him an added power, the power to draw all men to him, a power which was not evident when he walked this earth as the Son of Man. Christ never had any large following then, probably never more than five hundred disciples at any one time. But today, on this side of the cross, millions follow in his train. His words have come true: "And if I be lifted up I will draw all men unto me."

What is this power? We have all experienced it. It is the attraction of sacrifice. Who is not drawn by it? I shall never forget how, as a boy, I was drawn to that hero of the great lakes, John Maynard, by reading the story of his sacrifice. He was pilot on a lake steamer that caught fire, and though the flames swept around the pilot house he bravely stood at his post. From the stern of the vessel, where passengers and crew were gathered, the captain repeatedly called out, "Can you hold out a little longer, John?" And each time, more feebly, came the reply: "Aye, aye, sir, a little longer." At last the keel of the boat ground upon the gravelly beach, and all were saved except John Maynard, who died at his post. "Who, I ask, is not drawn by such sacrifice? And if the sacrifice of John Maynard draws one's heart, who is there that will not be drawn to Christ as they know the story of his sacrifice on the cross?"

Hearts are drawn, the world over, as the old love story of the cross is told. There is no doubt about that. Matchless as the teaching of Christ is; wonderful and beautiful as his life on earth was, it is the story of Calvary that draws human hearts. For there God in Christ met and settled forever the problem of every human heart. Sin was there put away by his sacrifice; there he bore our sins in his own body; there he, who knew no sin, was made sin for us. It was a divine sacrifice meeting every human need. No burdened soul need longer stumble and fall under the weight of sin. Weary, worn out, why not yield yourself to the drawing power of the uplifted Christ? That is the question. Christ draws all men, but will all men yield? That depends upon the men, for as free moral agents we have the power of saying, "No." Among the saddest words Jesus ever uttered are these: "Ye will not come unto me that ye might have life." Note it carefully, "Ye will not." It is a matter then of our wills. Will we yield?

In a little New York state town where I was a student pastor a man sat alone one Sunday night in his home. Some time before this a devoted Christian woman, in paying him a bill, said, "Mr. —, I wouldn't be in your shoes for all you have in the world." And as she said this she placed in his hands two volumes of the life of Christ, requesting that he read them. Time, that Sunday night, hung heavily on his hands. The folks were away; he had nothing to do. Alas! he picked up one of the volumes and began to read, not in the front of the book but near the close. It was the second volume of the life of Christ, and as he read he became deeply interested, then fascinated, finally drawn. What was he reading? The story of Calvary. A tear glistened in his eye, rolled down his cheek, then another and another. At length, unable to resist longer, he rushed out of the house, up town to the little church, and just as the benediction was about to be pronounced, down the aisle came the man. As he reached the pulpit he cried aloud, "What must I do to be saved?" And there, that night, drawn by the uplifted Christ, he yielded himself to him who is mighty to save. Oh my friend, the uplifted Christ draws. Will you yield?

Striking simile. Another striking example of the simile which we are going to include in our forthcoming text-book on rhetoric will be this: "He lied like a reliable steam-engine."—Ohio State Journal.

Pleasant Fields of Holy Writ

Motto for this week: Indeed it is only in the Bible that we find a large, free and unprejudiced history, for the reason that it is taught incidentally. The Bible simply reflects the ages; they shine through its pages by their own light. Theodore T. Munger.

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Second Quarter. Lesson VI. Acts XI 19-24. XI 1-3. May 7, 1916.

THE MISSIONARIES OF ANTIOCH. Out of persecution "the better" Providence brought the "honey" of wider evangelism, for those believers who were scattered at the martyrdom of Stephen traveled abroad, preaching it is true exclusively to Hebrews, but so at least preparing for a universal diffusion of the truth. In this way Antioch superceded Jerusalem as a central point of ecclesiastical history. Here Christianity first assumed its missionary character. Here Saul the convert was brought from his seclusion in Tarsus and given a sphere for his phenomenal gifts.

The church at Antioch flourished. To use a platitude, "it reached the masses." "Much people was taught and added." It became a metropolitan church, influential in numbers, social prestige, gifts and graces. It was a church rich in pastors and prophets. Conscious of its phenomenal resources the congregation seemed aware that it should accomplish still greater things, that as munificent recipients they should be munificent givers also. A day is set apart in which special inquiry shall be made of the Lord. Abundance and prayer is not in vain. The Divine mind is unmistakably learned. First steps are taken in a transition of transcendent importance. Hitherto the diffusion of the gospel beyond the borders of Palestine had been the accident of circumstance. Now of set purpose in answer to prayer under direction of the Holy Ghost the publication of the glad tidings in foreign parts is deliberately undertaken. The event is exemplary as well as epochal. After this manner the church is still to seek the tokens of Providence. Missionaries are still to be set apart with prayer and fasting and considered as "sent forth by the Holy Ghost."

The first, Barnabas, and the last named Saul, in the pastoral roster of Antioch are designated for missionary enterprise. Thus out of a "prayer meeting" goes the mightiest movement of the ages. Yet with what simplicity it is characterized. The notation is just this, "They laid their hands on them, and sent them away." This is a book of Acts, not of Adjectives. The high mountain summits of Cyprus could be discerned above the water-line of the Mediterranean. It was a natural objective point for the first missionaries commissioned for foreign parts. "Over the ocean wave, far far away, There the poor heathen lay waiting for day."

They thoroughly evangelized the island, not its seaport only, but its rustic hamlets as well. At its Western end and in its capital they fight the devil in his last trench. The "Prince of this World" in the person of the sorcerer offers resistance saying, "I was here before you."

Here is a triumph! Two unheralded men, without backing, civil or ecclesiastical, casting themselves on the dark flood of heathenism, declaring the message of one who died, shamefully on a cross. That flood will close over their heads and drown them and their enterprise in oblivion. But it does not! On the contrary, they and their undertaking have survived for twenty centuries, changing customs and beliefs hoary with antiquity and affecting continents then unknown. There have been many famous journeys before this one. Some undertaken with royal patronage and subsidized by imperial treasuries. Anchor has been weighed at sound of trumpets and roar of cannon. But this still remains the most famous voyage in the history of the world. No king knew anything about it. It made no draft on royal treasury. There was no parting salute. Just two plain men and their young attendant left Antioch and sailed for Cyprus. Yet the current civilization of Europe and of America as yet undiscovered was the result of that voyage. If St. Paul had not made this missionary journey the New Testament and current history would need to be rewritten.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.

As Americans we have special interest in Cyprus, through the successful researches there of our consul, Cesnoia. The island has been fairly transferred to this country in the collection which illustrates its ancient art and life and enriches the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City. But none of these precious tile graven with Cypriot characters can tell us of an event more portentous than is here recorded in the New Testament. Cyprus was the bridge on which our current civilization swung toward Europe.

All the current and favorite arguments against foreign missions could have been piled with equal force against the expedition of Barnabas and Saul to Asia Minor. "All the sinners in Antioch were not yet converted!" "The money and talent were needed at home." "The heathen were doing well enough." "To all such objections there would be but one answer: The mission was undertaken under Divine authority." They being sent forth by the Holy Ghost. "Twenty-first century missions have just as indisputable Divine warrant. And the proof of the pudding is in the eating. The results of modern missions justify them as certainly as the result of the Pauline mission was its own vindication."

St. Paul's simultaneous change of name and advance in rank was perfectly natural. "Paul" was Roman equivalent to "Saul." The new folks among whom he ministered would instinctively address him by the equivalent. The apostle was too astute to protest or to correct them. Why handicap himself with a Jewish name as he approached the Gentiles? On the other hand his taking the leadership was simply the logic of the situation. St. Paul's was the master mind. For a hundred years, Luke was supposed to be in error in calling Sergius a proconsul. Authorities seemed to agree that Cyprus was an imperial province, and hence governed by a legate instead of a proconsul. It is now discovered that, although originally an imperial province, it was subsequently ceded to the Senate, and thenceforth governed by a proconsul.

May 7, 1916. Matthew XXV. 14-30 THE CONSECRATION OF TALENTS (Consecration Meeting.)

"It is not flattery for me to tell you, you have talents. It is mere statement of fact," said Garfield in an address to collegians. "The universal distribution of talents is still being made and it is as manifestly unequal as it is universal. The conscious possession of any talent unused carries with it obligation to use the same. Talents like tools unused are easy prey to rust." "Shake the napkin at every corner" is the brusque and characteristic cry of William Booth. In that case even a single talent could not hide itself in any fold. All would roll out for circulation and increase. Merely to be accounted the possessor of talents is a matter of pride and ostentation. The intelligent, free and continuous use of talent in the cause of humanity and universal truth is in the noblest sense the consecration of talent. The historic achievements of noted persons while still in their youth are both admonitory and inspirational. Each was only twenty-eight when he wrote the sonatas to which Mozart, Haydn and Beethoven acknowledged their obligation. William Cullen Bryant was only eighteen when he wrote "Thanatopsis," with which Richard Henry Stoddard declares American poetry began.

MILTON HIGH SCHOOL TRIM EVANSVILLE, BASEBALL NINE (SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Milton, May 5.—The Milton high school baseball team officially opened the 1916 season here today with a 12 to 5 win over Evansville. The game was an interesting one, and the town turned out loyally to witness it. The boys were out for the first time in their new suits, and they showed up as a pretty classy bunch. Milton got to Darnier, who was throwing for Evansville, in the first inning and scored four runs. They got another in the second, and in the fourth a series of errors and good batting gained them five more runs. Randolph stole home in the eighth. The fourth inning was the only one in which the Evansville bunch could do anything with Kraus. They made four runs in that round. We play Walworth here Monday. Everybody turn out. A good game is promised.

SCHOOL CHILDREN HONOR ARBOR DAY

Programs, Commemorating Arbor Day Are Held By Schools of City This Afternoon.

Arbor day was commemorated this afternoon by all the schools of the city with programs and out door festivities. At the Adams school all the grades united and had their program together in the Kindergarten rooms. The small children of the Kindergarten gave a May pole dance and various other folk dances. At the Washington school readings were given on fire prevention and others appropriate to Arbor day. The third and fourth grades at the Lincoln school had their folk dances, songs and readings.

The Grant school grades had their individual exercises and talks on bird life, songs and recitations were given by the pupils. The Webster school kindergarten will have their special program this evening at seven thirty o'clock. The parents and friends of the children are invited. The fifth room at this school honored the day with their program this afternoon. The Garfield school did not celebrate today as they have an annual program later on in the school year.

The Jefferson school kindergarten had a May pole and folk dances this morning in the fifth and seventh grades this afternoon pictures were shown of scenes in Europe. The other rooms of this school gave short programs.

The pupils of the Jackson school had a united program this afternoon in which all the members of the school took part. At all the schools the parents of the pupils were present to witness the exercises.

High School. This afternoon many people visited the high school where the annual exhibition of the pupils' work is being held. In the domestic science department refreshments were served. This evening the school will be open and every one is invited to attend. Last year over fifteen hundred persons visited the building and by the number that were present this afternoon it is expected that many more will be present.

One Cause of Forest Fires. It is believed that forests sometimes take fire through the branches of trees being rubbed together by the violence of the wind, thus producing the friction necessary to ignite them.

YOUNG LADIES ENTERTAINED CHURCH SOCIETY LAST NIGHT

Misses Anna Erickson, Clara Larsen and Elsie Borgwardt entertained the members of the Young People's society of the Norwegian Lutheran church last evening at the church parlors. A most enjoyable program was rendered. A vocal solo was given by Alfred Olson, a reading by Carl Quana and the pastor, Rev. Thorson, made a few remarks. A delicious luncheon was served and some time spent in most enjoyable games.

"BIG SIX" A LOSER IN FIRST 1916 GAME

Mathewson Drops Ten Inning Battle to Braves—Looks As Though He Can't "Come Back."

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, May 4.—Christy Mathewson, the "old master" went into the box today for the first time this season in a desperate effort to halt the Braves' downward career. He was hit for a total of fifteen safeties, but it took the Braves ten innings to eke out a 7 to 6 victory. Mathewson pitched desperately, but the old stuff was not there. The Braves piled up a four-run lead in the first inning, but the Giants kept plugging away and in the ninth Chappell's homer into the left field bleachers tied things up. Smith walked to start the tenth and Kauff muffed Compton's fly. Gowdy's single scored Smith with the winning run.

Chicago, May 4.—The Cleveland Indians kept up their winning streak today, shutting out the White Sox, 2 to 0. The pastime was a pitchers' battle throughout. Conube for Cleveland opposing Williams.

Tigers Are Browed.
Detroit, May 4.—St. Louis bunched three hits in the thirteenth inning today and defeated the Tigers, 7 to 6. Poor pitching and ineffective batting with men on bases caused Detroit's downfall. Groom pitched the last eight innings for the Browns and was not scored on. In the eleventh inning, Detroit had a man on third with nobody out, but three batters failed to get the ball out of the infield. A scored running catch by Marsans was the fielding failure.

Pirates Down Cubs.
Pittsburgh, May 4.—The Pirates defeated the Cubs here today, 4 to 2, a batting rally in the eighth bringing victory to the locals.

Home Opener to Brewers.
The Brewers, aided and abetted by Larry Chappell, Mayor Hoan and about 5,000 raving bugs, copped the initial contest of the season in the stadium, trouncing Chambers and Eighth street yesterday by a count of 6 to 3. Wild huzzas!

Slapnicka twirled for the Trailers, and had little except his smile and memories of a bonus while George, who started for the visitors rivaled Slap in his possessions.

Many new faces greeted the fans when the players took the field. Chief interest, of course, centered in Jim Thorpe, the aborigine outfielder. Jim made good with a jump, whaling out two hits, getting on base through a mull of Chappell's showing some real life on the bases and in addition, playing spectacular ball in the field.

HUGGINS WANTS PITCHERS TO BECOME BUNTERS.

St. Louis, Mo., May 5.—Miller Huggins, manager of the St. Louis Nationals, is in the market for a course of instruction or some inducement that will make his pitchers good bunters. Huggins, who formerly led the league as a sacrifice bunter, cannot understand why the average pitcher pushes the ball hard enough to make an easy out, or pops up a dinky fly, when trying to advance a man.

When it was suggested that he offer a bonus he smiled. "I've tried it," he said. "I've even called them out to special practice, but the pitchers won't get the knack."

Huggins believes this is due in great measure to the obsession fostered from the sand lots up through the States. He has been in the big league, that the pitcher is not supposed to hit.

CLEAN UP TICKETS ARE ALLOWED TO BALL GAME.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Terre Haute, Ind., May 5.—Manager Gilbert of the Terre Haute club of the Central league has decided to do all he can to aid in the observance of clean up week in this city. He has announced that, when clean up week comes around, that he will set one afternoon and make the admission fee for boys ten cents tied to a string.

A similar stunt was tried by a motion picture theater proprietor in Valparaiso, Ind., recently, and during one night collected 10,000 tin cans as admissions. He had so many tin cans that he had trouble keeping the doorway to the theater open, but Manager Gilbert says he will have plenty of room and will break the "movie" man's record.

Thomas R. Marshall seems to have discovered that it's really worth while being vice president of the United States. He has received season passes to the American and National league ball parks.

Letters received in this country by friends of a prominent English trainer of pugilists, tell of a unique way in which he has turned his knowledge in to money in connection with the war. For some years he has possessed the secret of a brine preparation which has been in great demand among boxers for hardening or to use ring vernacular, "pickling" the skin of the hands and face. Shortly after the beginning of the war he was requested to prepare a codify for the use on the feet of soldiers, which swelled and cracked under the rigors of the field campaign. His first offering was so satisfactory to the government officials that he is now running a large factory day and night turning out brine for the soldiers.

University of Pennsylvania basketball quintet which won the Eastern intercollegiate championship by defeating Princeton in the playoff of the tie for first place, will lose only two players by graduation. Williamson, a forward, and Jones, a guard.

University of California will hold instruction in all branches of athletics during the summer season of the institution. Walter Christie will have charge of the track and field activities. Andy Smith, football, Cazen, baseball and Perrington, basketball.

Rowing races will be a feature of the Leland Stanford university coeds field day events this summer. The girls are practicing in twelve-oared gigs. Crews representing four classes will row.

Mike Kahoe denies he has had any communication with Manager Stallings agent obtaining Eddie Ainsmith. "That such a deal was contemplated early in the spring I will not deny," Kahoe said, "but it has never been taken up since and I think that Manager Stallings is perfectly satisfied with his present catching. I will say, however, that I consider Ainsmith one of the best catchers in this league, and that no club would make a mistake in paying a big price for him."

ROONEY WILL DRIVE ILL FATED CAR IN WHICH BOB BURMAN WAS KILLED.

Indianapolis, May 5.—Although Bob Burman was killed some time ago while driving in an automobile race on the Pacific coast, the car he had started to prepare for the Memorial day races at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway will be entered just the same.

Tom Rooney has picked the car as his mount in the 300-mile race and says he does not feel the least creepy or superstitious about driving the machine which will embody many ideas which Bob Burman, once crowned "Speed King" on the local course, believed should be included in a speedster.

More than $100,000 is to be expended on the new grounds of the Chicago Tennis club. When the present arrangements of the club are completed the organization will have one of the finest tennis plants in the middle west and will stage numerous state and sectional championship tournaments. The site of the club covers two blocks on the North Side and cost $70,000. An additional $30,000 will be spent in preparing turf and clay courts, clubhouse and other accommodations for the players. The membership, which is expected to reach 700 by the time the courts are ready, will include all the leading players of Chicago and vicinity.

ALL WE ASKED WAS A TRIAL

TWO BUSINESS MEN HELPED BY CAS-KA

SEE WHAT THESE JANESVILLE CITIZENS THINK OF CAS-KA.

Not a Drop of Whiskey or Alcohol in CAS-KA, and it is Not a Patent Medicine—All Mail Orders Must Be in Before Saturday, May 27th.

Probably the most interesting feature of the remarkable sale of CAS-KA now going on at the J. P. Baker drug store, is what CAS-KA is actually accomplishing in Janesville. Four weeks ago this medicine was comparatively unknown here. Today CAS-KA is being purchased in big quantities by Janesville people. There must be some reason for this rapid success, and the reason can be ascertained by an hour spent at the drug store listening to what people say who have been taking the preparation and have come to re-purchase.

Among the statements made, the following will give some idea of what these callers are saying, at the same time indicate the reason for the enormous demand for CAS-KA which meets it wherever it goes:

A. F. Watson, proprietor of the East Side Hiteh Barn on Bluff street says: "I have had a number of people tell me how CAS-KA had helped them, so I can say that I am not surprised if it helps every one as it has me. For the past year I have had to get up three or four times a night from weak kidneys. CAS-KA has not only helped me for that trouble, I also had a touch of rheumatism; it has helped also."

F. Coughlin of the meat market firm of Coughlin and Co., at 22 North Main street, says: "I have taken everything. I heard of CAS-KA for catarrh of the stomach. There has not been a day in two years that I did not vomit after breakfast until lately, and will say that when I started to take CAS-KA five weeks ago I had no confidence in it. The first bottle stopped the vomiting. I am now on the second bottle and it has cured that dull pain I had between eyes. I am recommending it to my friends, that is, I tell them what it has done for me and I know of several that have bought some."

James Shikanyanski in shipping department of Rock River Cotton Co. lives at 1238 Racine St. CAS-KA has helped me for backache and kidney trouble and my wife for sick headache. I thought at first we would have to stop taking it as it moved the bowels too freely. But we took smaller Woses and it now acts all right. We feel better than we have in years. These are only a few of many that you can talk with if you come to the drug store any day this month.

Do you know that the secret of success with CAS-KA is its action on the kidneys? Some people say: Well, that CAS-KA is a good physic, anyhow.

Do you suppose that you would see hundreds of people paying 35c a bottle for CAS-KA if it was only good for the bowels? You can get 10c worth of salts and make six bottles of physic. If you ask your family doctor he will tell you that you cannot relieve a person's rheumatism, kidney or stomach by physicizing them. You ask any doctor who has watched the action of CAS-KA and if he tells you what he knows about CAS-KA, it will be in CAS-KA's favor. Come to the drug store and talk with some of the people that are buying this medicine and you will find that those that have been trying CAS-KA are buying more.

We gave CAS-KA to 300 to 300 people every day for the past six weeks. If you are so situated that you cannot come twice a day to try CAS-KA, free, you can get one of the $1 bottles for 35 cents or three for $1, and if you don't notice any benefit for catarrh or rheumatism, take the bottle back and get your money. And in ten days if we don't relieve your stomach, kidney, or liver trouble, we refund your money.

Sick headache, female weakness or getting up nights, caused by weak kidneys, relieved in four or five days. You can use part, or the entire bottle as a test. Now, you don't have to spend even 35 cents to find this is true, as you can come twice a day and try it free.

CAS-KA does these things by making the blood pure.

Mail orders will receive prompt attention from those living some distance.

F. J. McMillan, Mgr. for CAS-KA Co. Address all mail orders care of J. P. Baker, Druggist—Advertisement.

Evansville News

Evansville, May 5.—The "Help a Bit" club met Thursday afternoon with Miss Alice Pierson. A very pleasant and profitable afternoon was resultant for the members present.

A wave of prosperity must have struck the farmers of this vicinity. The Brunson boys and J. Larson are building big barns. Frank Bullard is adding an eighteen foot addition to his already large barn and Ed Hyne is also making an extension to his large barn.

Terry Turner, Loyal Baker, Reid Kendall, Glenn Fellows, Elsie Libby, Honore Hubbard, Earl Tolles, Samuel Phillips, Seth Cain, Keith Patterson and Mr. Long went to Milton yesterday, the Evansville high school team playing Milton Milton with a resultant score of 12 to 5 in favor of Milton.

School now begins at 8:15, thus allowing an early closing at 3:15, so that the baseball team may have more time for practice after school.

Mrs. Marian Babbitt spent Wednesday in Janesville with Mrs. McKeoghe, who is unable to be out.

Edwin and Reid Kendall, who recently moved here from California, have entered the high school and expect to make their home here.

Evansville friends will be glad to learn that Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Partridge are moving from Indianapolis back to Chicago, thus bringing them nearer home.

Mrs. John Reese was a mid-week visitor in Janesville.

Mrs. Beroud is spending a few days in the country with Mrs. Arthur Spencer.

Baptist Church. Rev. O. P. Bestor, a former pastor, will preach in this church next Sunday morning and evening. He will also preach at Union at 2:30 p. m. Mr. Bestor's five year pastorate in Evansville made many friends for him, who will be pleased to see and hear him again.

Free Methodist Church. The evangelistic meetings now in progress under the leadership of Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Shellhammer of Atlanta, Ga., are increasing in interest and attendance. The gospel messages each afternoon at 3 o'clock and each evening at 7:30 are full of helpfulness. They will speak Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school hour, 9:30 a. m. All cordially invited to these services.

E. J. Roberts, Pastor.

German Services.

German services will be held in the

M. E. church next Sunday at 2:15 p. m. You are invited. G. E. Zellmer.

St. John's Church.

St. John's Episcopal church. Second Sunday after Easter. Color of altar and vestments, white. Collect for second Sunday after Easter. Epistle: First Peter, second chapter, nineteenth verse. Holy Eucharist and sermon, 10:30 a. m. Sermon by the vicar on the text: Christ also suffered for us, leaving us an example, that we should follow His steps. First Peter, 11:21. Subject: "The Mystery of the Atonement, the Secret of the Grace and the Power of the Christian Life." The music will be rendered by St. John's boy choir. Sunday school, 11:30.

Evansville and address, 7:30 p. m. All are cordially invited to attend these services. The Rev. LeRoy A. Jahn, pastor in charge.

Methodist Episcopal Church. This church extends a most hearty invitation to participate in its services. The Sunday morning service is at 10:30. Sunday school at noon. Evening service at 6:30. Evening service at 7:30.

THE HICKEYVILLE CLARION

Three life insurance agents are on the trail of Hank Purdy, and it doesn't look as though he is going to have time to do much of his farm work this spring.

Anne Frisley says one very superfluous thing in this world to do is to allow your wife to take elocution lessons. He never yet seen a woman who wasn't fluent enough without em.

Uncle Ezra Harkins went to sleep back of the stove during the sermon at the Hardshell church Sunday evening and didn't wake up until Monday afternoon. Rev. Hank says if he tried to wake up all the members of his congregation after church he wouldn't get home himself until midnight, so he lets 'em dream.

The lighting system of Hopper-town was out of commission last Thursday night. Station Agent Jordan forgot to get any oil for the switch lights.

The Hardshell people are thinking of building a new church. All of the seats will be back to most send them to be placed upon the market as soon as we can float the bonds, inflate the capital stock, water the valuation, oil the machinery, and turn on the steam. Nothing like it has been invented since the odorless onion.

Our New Garage.

During the long and tedious winter months we labored on an invention which is expected to make us rich beyond the dreams of avarice. The invention is now complete and is ready to be placed upon the market as soon as we can float the bonds, inflate the capital stock, water the valuation, oil the machinery, and turn on the steam. Nothing like it has been invented since the odorless onion.

Our invention comes to fill a long-felt want. It is nothing more nor less than a collapsible garage, which can be set up or taken down in eight minutes, central standard time, and is meant for the use of automobile owners who cannot pay their rent and are obliged to move frequently to different localities where there are strange meat markets and grocery stores, whose new lines of credit may be established.

Our garage is made of tin and can be carried in the ordinary suitcase when folded up. When opened up it keeps unfolding and unfolding, until you have a regular garage with two windows, double doors and a gasoline can cutting one behind. It is much easier than a tent to put up and take down and will accommodate any sized automobile from the $250 peanut roaster variety up to the seven-passenger phylacter.

When going on a long tour the owner can take the garage along with him in a suitcase and pitch it anywhere he decides to spend the night.

DRUNKARDS SAVED

We are in earnest when we ask you to give ORRINE a trial. You have nothing to risk and everything to gain, for your money will be returned if after a trial you fail to get results from ORRINE. You offer gives the wives and mothers of those who drink a chance to see the ORRINE treatment. It is a very simple treatment, can be given in the home without publicity or loss of time from business. Can be given secretly without patient's knowledge.

ORRINE is prepared in two forms: No. 1, sweet treatment, a powder; ORRINE No. 2, in pill form, for those who desire to take voluntary treatment. Costs only $1.00 a box. Ask for booklet.

McCue & Buss Drug Co.

14 So. Main St.

The price of this garage is going to be in the neighborhood of $8 cash, or $117 if paid for in monthly instalments. They will come in all colors, pink garages to match blue houses, etc. We are ready to sell territory to anybody who calls. We have already disposed of Alaska, Iceland and Montenegro.

We forgot to mention that the garage has a padlock on the front door, open plumbing, hot water heat, gas grade, hard and soft water, and a looking glass in the bathroom. If you have no automobile the garage can easily be used as a bungalow.

LAUNDRYMEN WILL MEET

AT MARSHFIELD CONVENTION

Marshfield, Wis., May 5.—J. C. Eger of Racine, president of the Wisconsin Laundrymen's association, opened the annual convention of that organization here today. Delegates were welcomed by Mayor A. G. Polker. Among some of the speakers during the two days' meeting are Stephen Gesell, Milwaukee; W. E. Fitch, secretary of the national association, Irving H. Robitsek, president of the Minneapolis Laundry Owners' association; Otto Rice, president of the Illinois association. Many laundrymen from Minnesota and Illinois are attending the convention.

We Disagree With Lord Macaulay,

who said: "People must be fooled in order to believe."

Lord Macaulay, the noted English historian, became famous for his wonderful style of writing. However, his theory about engaging the public's interest was fundamentally wrong, and for that reason his fame was merely as a Master of English style. Firms which advertise pianos at greatly reduced prices are attempting to interest the public in a manner similar to Lord Macaulay's.

Beware of Reduction Offers on New Pianos

Reduction offers on new pianos are attempts to deceive through an apparent concession in price. If the first price is too high it is unjust; if the dealer discriminates between purchasers it is also unjust.

Mrs. Smith Has No Right to Buy Cheaper Than You

You doubtless wish to be considered on a par with other purchasers. One naturally feels repugnance at the necessity of squabbling about price to get the lowest. Lyon & Healy clearly realized that discriminating between buyers invites dissension, and therefore instituted its very broad policy of fair treatment to all.

For A Few Days More

you can select a piano or player-piano from a stock of Lyon & Healy instruments such as has never heretofore been exhibited in Janesville. It was selected from the artist's point of view and represents the best Lyon & Healy can offer with consideration for design, finish and tone. Were you to go to Chicago you would have to examine a very large stock to find so many excellent specimens as are shown exclusively for only a few days more in Janesville.

Lyon & Healy's Special Representative is here to give you all desired information and you may feel free to call on him without the least obligation.

Slightly Used and Second-Hand Pianos may be had at very attractive prices during the sale. These include, among others, Mason & Hamlin, Schaaf, Emerson, Peck & Son, Pease & Co., Victor.
